TEXAS FOLK-LOREISTS BANKERS EXPECTING MEET HERE THIS WEEK AT LEAST 2000 HERE

INTERESTING SESSIONS TO BE HELD AT BAYLOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY.

PUBLIC INVITED TO ATTEND

Prof. John A. Lomax of State University Will Lecture on Cowboy Songs and Ballads.

The Texas Folk-Lore Association, which meets in annual session at Baylor university next Friday and Saturday is the chief feature on the schedule of events at the university this week. Miss Dorothy Scarborough, instructor in the English department of Baylor, is the president of the association. A program of appealing variety in the way of folk-lore with what is declared to be an especially attractive schedule of speakers, has been arranged for the meetings.

The president calls attention to the fact that all sessions of the association are open to the public and that the citizens of Waco have a special invitation to attend the meetings. Among the speakers are Dr. Clyde Chew Glascock, formerly associate professor of German in Yale, and now associate professor in Rice Institute, who is said to be one of the most interesting lecturers connected with the institution. He will tell of the fairy tales of the Vaterland.

Dr. Stith Thompson, who will speak on the European tales found among American Indians, is an instructor in the University of Texas, and is particularly interested in folk-lore. He read a paper before the American Folk-Lore Association at its last annual meeting.

The subject of "Cowboy Songs and Ballads" will be discussed by Professor John A. Lomax of the University of Texas, who is one of the best known folk-lore authorities in this line in the entire nation. Professor Lomax has twice been president of the American Folk-Lore Association, and for three years held the Sheldon Fellowship for Investigation of American Ballads. He has collected one volume of cowboy songs and ballads and is now engaged in making other collections of native folk songs.

First Hand Material. Mrs. L. T. Shaver of San Marcos has first hand material on her subject of the lore of the Choctaw Indians.

G. J. Rousseau of Baylor university, director of South Africa, is a native of the Transvaal, Adrian Bernardo of Bahia, Brazil, another student of Baylor, will discuss Brazilian superstitions.

W. W. Provenance of Waco, whose subject is Japanese folk-tales, was for three years a resident of Japan, and both as teacher and publisher, is acquainted with the lore of the land of cherry blossoms.

Giving a realistic touch of the negro folk-lore feature of the program will be the trained glee clubs of the border region. His topic is the Wild Horse stories of the southwest.

The following complete program is announced for the different sessions:

Friday Morning. Address, "Cowboy Songs and Ballads," Prof. John A. Lomax, University of Texas. Reception to the delegates at the residence of Dr. A. J. Armstrong.

Friday Evening, 8:15 O'clock. Cowboy ballad, sung by H. C. Payne. Lecture, "German Fairy Tales," Dr. Clyde Chew Glascock, Rice Institute.

Saturday Morning, 9:30 O'clock. Business session. Address, "South African Folk-lore," G. J. Rousseau, Baylor university, formerly of Transvaal, South Africa.

Stories of the Choctaw Indians, Mrs. L. T. Shaver, San Marcos. Stories of the Japanese, E. W. Provenance, Baylor university, formerly of Japan.

Wild Horse stories of the Southwest, W. W. Webb, University of Texas. Saturday Afternoon, 2:30 O'clock. European tales found among the American Indians, Dr. Stith Thompson, University of Texas.

Indian Folk-lore, sung by Miss Irene McLendon. President's address: Negro Ballads and "Reels," Dorothy Scarborough, Baylor university.

Negro Folk-songs, sung by students of Paul Quinn and Central Texas colleges.

Temple Man Given Up as Lost in the Lusitania Tragedy

Temple, Tex., May 15.—Reluctantly, friends of T. J. Silva, the Temple cotton man who was a passenger aboard the Lusitania, have abandoned hope for his safety, although his wife still believes that he will be found alive and well. Mrs. Silva, in company with her two children and brother, the latter Cliff Dekle, a business man of Tampa, Fla., who arrived yesterday, left today for the former home in Thomasville, Ga.

A cablegram from the American consul at Queenstown, Eng., stated that search is being made for the body of the missing man, while Governor Ferguson transmitted a telegram from the state department at Washington, relating that Silva's name was not listed among the identified dead, but any information received would be promptly supplied.

City Manager Plan Boosted at Temple

Temple, Tex., May 15.—The matter of revising the city charter so as to substitute the commission-city manager plan of government for the mayor-councilmen system is being agitated again and the Young Men's Business League has called a special meeting of its directors to be held tomorrow to discuss what attitude that organization should assume in the premises.

A similar proposition embodied in practically a new charter was submitted to the people over a year ago and at that time rejected. Those behind the present movement claim that there has been a reaction in public sentiment since that time.

MRS. W. C. R. HTER HAS NEIGHBORS GUESTS
The last of the week's pleasanties found Mrs. W. C. Richter of North Twelfth street hostess to her neighbors, about twenty in number. Quite the pleasant party resulted from Mrs. Richter's happy thought.

FRANKLIN LINDSEY HOST FOR HUACO CLUB DINNER
Among the small dinner groups at the Huaco club on Friday evening, Franklin Lindsey entertained Mrs. J. T. McElroy of Odessa, Mrs. Mattie D. Willis with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gregg.

H. H. SHEAR HAS GUESTS FOR HUACO CLUB DINNER
With invitations for Mrs. Leon Russ of Tampico, Mr. and Mrs. Baylis Earle, Mr. and Mrs. Luke Moore, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Shear, H. H. Shear was dinner host at the Huaco club on Friday evening.

MR. AND MRS. J. LEE DAVIS FOR MISS JULIET GRAVES
Among the dinner groups noticed at the Huaco club on Friday evening was one in which Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Davis entertained for their guest, Miss Juliet Graves of Virginia. With these were the Misses Eleanor Blair and Lucille Hill, John Davis, Doctor Eastland and Dr. Lovelace.

INVITATIONS ARE GIVEN FOR BROWNING PLAY
Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Armstrong have invited some from among their town friends for their home on Tuesday evening. This is to enjoy the first presentation of a Browning play given by the Browning class in Baylor university is presenting "In a Balcony" to invited guests as well as those from the university who may be concerned.

SPECIAL NOTICE FOR WOMEN FOR BANKERS' CONVENTION
It is requested that, without further notice, the wives of the local bankers, officers and directors, be present at the Riggin's on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. This is to welcome the visiting women, and to entertain as a house party for the after-dinner at the Progress club. Since there are more than sixty in this official bank family, no other reception list is named.

WEEKLY DANCE AT HUACO DRAWS LARGE CROWD
Since the summer season is inaugurated at the Huaco Club, the capacity of the rooms has been taxed. Many a brilliant dinner party, with unusually large attendance for the dance, has marked this opening. On Friday evening, some very pretty dinners, also a number of couples, enjoyed the dining room in preparation for the general assembly for the informal dance. Several out of town guests were noticed.

MR. AND MRS. CARROLL HAVE HUACO CLUB DINNER
Using the now popular sunburst buds in golden basket, graced by the delicate valley lily sprays, and with the same in corsage and boutonniere for plate favors, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Carroll added one of the unusually pretty dinner parties to the Huaco club dinner and dance on Friday evening. Their courtesy was to have been paid to Mr. Gilbert of New Orleans, but his departure was forced earlier. The guests were the Messrs. and Mesdames William Neale, Lee Cowan and C. W. Wilson.

MRS. SIDNEY BURROWS HAS FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB
Playing with the Friday Bridge club this week were several guests, thus bringing the club to its full measure of four tables. Joining the game were the Mesdames Baylis Earle, J. E. Allison, Layton Puckett, J. E. Starr. Two more games will complete the season. Mrs. William Neale entertains on Friday next. She will be followed by Mrs. W. B. Brazelton and then the Friday Bridge takes summer recess. Mrs. Chapin Seely made the leading score with Mrs. Burrows.

MRS. HAL MOODY HOSTESS FOR HENRY DOWNS CHAPTER
For the first time since she became a member, Mrs. Hal Moody welcomed the members of the Henry Downs Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, into her home. In response, there was an unusual number. Routine business was dispatched. Two names were accepted for membership pending the accuracy of their papers. Two others are pending, which gives quite an impetus to the chapter enrollment. This was the last session except the social adjournment which is invariably a picnic. This year the chapter with invited guests will meet at Cameron park for celebration of National Flag Day, June 14, as well as for their social session. Mrs. Thomas McCullough presided as regent, and in the absence of Mrs. J. R. Mackdockery from the city, Mrs. J. R. Mackdockery kept the minutes.

GRADUATE NURSES HAVE ANNUAL REUNION
The graduate nurses from Providence sanitarium were entertained at their alma mater for an association meeting. A formal address was given by Dr. K. H. Agneworth. Following this, by invitation of Mrs. Roy Germain of North Twelfth street, the nurses enjoyed a social session with forty-two the diversion. In this, Miss Flora Brown made high score. Mrs. German used the alumnae colors, blue and white, both in her room decorations and in her refreshment service. The guests were the Misses Brown, Winnie Carradine, Anne Connors, Helen Archer, Nell Gaffney, Lena Brown,

MR. AND MRS. JAMES RILEY WITH MRS. BREUSTEDT
Noticed among the pretty dinner tables in readiness for a special party during the Friday evening assembly at the Huaco club, Mr. and Mrs. James Riley with Mrs. William Breustedt had guests. In this pink prevailed in taste as decorative theme. One of the features in merriment was the appearance of the birthday cake to honor Edward Marshall. Other guests were Mrs. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith, Dr. Nutter, Miss Ida Orand, Doro Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Pio Crespi.

MRS. G. J. ROUSSEAU AT HOME THIS AFTERNOON
Between the hours of 4 and 5 this afternoon, Mrs. G. Rousseau invites her friends and all those of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. C. McConnell, to call, 1619 South Ninth street. Dr. and Mrs. McConnell came from their home at Atlanta for the convention in Houston, and are here for one day only. The many friends are pleased with this opportunity for another glimpse of their former friends and coworkers in the First Baptist denomination.

MRS. EDWIN HARDING HAS SOCIAL ATTENTION
The visit to the old home of Mrs. Edwin Harding, of Alexandria, Louisiana, is proving the occasion of social demonstration from her many friends, the friends with whom she attended school, enjoyed her girlhood, and the first years of matrimony. Mrs. Alfred Edwards is hostess of the past few days, while Mrs. C. B. Hill and Mrs. William Hoar are those in prospect. The mounting Mrs. Harding has had individual invitation to several of the recent bridge games and other social sessions.

MISS HOFFMANN HONOR CAMERON PARK DONORS
The first to remember that May 26 is the day upon which the people of Waco received the magnificent donation of Cameron park, the Misses Hoffmann are honoring the donors, Mrs. Flora Cameron, W. W. Cameron and Mrs. Edward Bolton. This will be a special day for the letter of appreciation, the band assisting in paying compliment. The public generally will be invited to drive out to Cameron park for the 7 o'clock program. The letter will be given in the interim, but it is sufficient in advance to know that the Camerons are to be honored and that the Misses Hoffmann are to do this.

HELEN KELLER'S AUTOGRAPH REACHES THIS CITY
In token of pleasing reminder of her visit to this city, Helen Keller, on Saturday sent her autograph to Miss Kate Friend. Aside from the personal association, this is something worthy remark, exemplifying as it does the possibility for higher education with the deaf, dumb and blind. Miss Keller writes in a firm stroke, an exceedingly legible name, a cross between printing and penmanship. There is evidence of a form to guide height and width of letters. The letter came from Scranton, Pennsylvania, evidence that Miss Keller is again on her lecture tour, and that the alarm over concealing her later Texas engagements was only temporary.

ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM AT CAMERON PARK
Commemorating the anniversary of Cameron park and as a special tribute to Mrs. Flora B. Cameron, who, with her family, donated the beautiful play ground and pleasure resort to the people of Waco, there will be a special program on one of the lawns in the park on the night of May 26, at 7 o'clock.
Prof. V. Alessandro and his band will contribute the band music and the Misses Faid and Bird Hoffmann, with their pupils, will give a dance revue. Both the band and the Misses Hoffmann will contribute their services on this occasion as a tribute to the public, and a program full of interest is assured. No admission of any kind will be charged and the public is cordially invited to attend.

GURLEY SCHOOL CLOSED WITH INTERESTING PROGRAM
The most successful year in the history of the Gurley school came to an end with Friday night. The teachers and the mother's club combined in an entertainment to mark the beginning of vacation days. In overflowing house greeted the children, who gave the numbers of the program. The drill, given by the teachers received many compliments, and yet drilling without responsive talent is futile. This gave compliment, too, to the little folks. At the program, it was the social hour with mother's club offering refreshments. The teachers who have formed the corps for Gurley school in the past year were T. E. Lewis, principal, the Misses Willie Belle Dromgoole, Alta B. Legear, assistant. Mrs. E. Perdue has been president of the Mother's Club.

FRIDAY BRIDGE CLUB IS NOW ADJOURNED
Guests in the homes of several members enlarged the bridge circle which plays on Friday afternoon each season, without a name and without the dignity of a name. Mrs. Alonzo Volet was the hostess, and it was her pleasure to invite the club out to the club Huaco. After the accustomed game, Mrs. Volet announced that having been so frequent a guest with her, she had decided to hostess, her sister, Mrs. Schumacher, had left a souvenir of her pleasure. This was a silver vase. Following the award of a summer fan to Mrs. William Carroll for high score, and a gold hat pin to Mrs. John Wright, all present cut for the vase, and it fell to Mrs. C. N. Smith. This brought the adjournment for summer. Playing as guests at Mrs. Volet were the Mesdames J. W. Whitworth, Edwin Harding of Louisiana, Marian Herz, Joseph Hersh of Corpus Christi, John Dockery, W. A. Parker, C. N. Smith, Shel Sparks, Lon Sparks, Ralph Turner, Forrest Good-bay, Ed Laughlin, William Carroll and John Wright.

AVOID SPRING ILLS

Purify and Build Up the Blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

In the spring your blood needs cleansing and enriching. You feel poorly, and there is more or less eruption on your face and body. Your appetite is not good, your sleep is broken, and you are tired all the time. You need Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the one safe and effective tonic that has stood the test of forty years. It makes the pure red blood that will make you feel better, look better, eat and sleep better. It is the old standard tried and true all-the-year-around medicine for the blood and the whole system. Ask any druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist on having it. Nothing else acts like it, for nothing else has the same formula or ingredients, and so there is no real substitute. Get it today.

Headquarters for KODAKS and KODAK FILMS

This is the time of the year to enjoy your Kodak. If you haven't one let us sell it to you, and remember that if it isn't an Eastman it isn't a Kodak. We will explain to you how to make good pictures without any failures. Bring your films to us for developing and printing. We guarantee satisfaction and due to the fact that the films we sell are "Eastmans" your pictures will not fade.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS GETTING READY FOR PLAY
With more than the usual number of graduates, with more than the usual class spirit, and with the excellent coaching of Mrs. Howard Mann, the high school seniors are assured a week even before their final rehearsals that their annual play is to be a success. The seniors each year present a benefit play, leaving the funds accruing for the high school library. This year the three comedies, "Hicks at College," is to be presented, the date being next Saturday evening. Twenty seniors are in the cast; Charles Garrett, the class president, taking the leading role, and Miss Fidelia Miller, the female. Others are the Misses Thelma Bowen, Aletha Sleeper, Alzine Sneed, Carrie Morgan, Louise Tyler, Marian Renick, Marie Pfaeffle, Sadie Hawton, with L. B. Etelson, Lewellyn, Dave Levine, Egan Hambold, James Owen, Ben Worben, Travis Smith, Paul Wilson, Tom Seauder, Gus Levy, Burney Mansell. All the "hits" of college life as well as the characters will appear. Rehearsals so far show something good and the finishing touches are yet to come. It goes without saying that not only students but adults will form a large audience for these talented and generous seniors. The date is next Saturday, at the Auditorium.

CONVERSATION DANCE FOR ROSTRA CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Baine gave compliment to their young brother, William L. Baine, by inviting the members of the high school Rostra club out for a conversation dance. Regular programs were provided and a few minutes soon found each lad with a lassie for each number. Then the host announced that positively there could be no movement of the feet, but of the heart and mouth only, but if there were any present who just could not converse, they would be excused should they care to dance on the veranda. Each of these numbers was in different ways to suit the taste of the different participants. In the living room the high school colors were in evidence, and in the dining room June roses were prolific, just a suggestion that those little maid-ens were some day to be June brides. Sandwiches and punch were served as refreshments. This being an oratorical club, John Mayfield presided as toastmaster and many were the clever and witty toasts given. Miss Rose Roberts delighted the party with several vocal numbers as did also Miss Margaret Griffith and the Messrs. Werkenhith, Smith and Hill with instrumental music. Many were the compliments given the hostess upon the pleasant evening. Mrs. H. M. Baine was assisted by her mother, Mrs. H. B. Baine and Mrs. Sam Knight. Present were Misses Clair Richardson, Alzine Sneed, Mildred Moore, Kate Craven, Lucile Horne, Irene Baine, Essie Owens, Josephine Daniel, Rose Roberts and Margaret Griffith of Fort Worth, with Ferlie Megarity, L. S. Etelson, Vernon Hill, Dan Kelly, Ben Werkenhith, Travis Smith, James Gutrie, William Baine, James Guthrie,

Paul Adams, Albert Percy, Gwynn Ingram and George McCullough.

PROGRAM IS READY FOR WOMEN VISITORS

As chairman of the social features attending the coming Bankers' Convention, Mrs. Edward Rotan has called the wives of the local bankers together with directors and officials. From these committees were formed, and the following is now official as to the order of entertainment for the women visitors. It is expected that arrivals will be made during Tuesday. Tuesday afternoon at half after 4 o'clock, automobiles will be in waiting at the Hotel Riggin, for a drive over the city. The Mesdames Ben Gray Kendall and William Neale are

Notice to Subscribers:
Delivery routes in the City of Waco are in the hands of independent carriers, who buy their papers at wholesale prices. Subscriptions accounts are due them, not The Waco Morning News. They are under heavy bond, not only to give the best delivery service, but to pay for their papers each month. Their remuneration is the difference between the wholesale price and the retail price which they receive from subscribers. This margin of profit is such that they cannot afford to extend credit, except month by month. They are not required, and they are advised against delivering papers to anyone who does not pay in accordance with the above subscription terms. These carriers are all earnest, hard working men and they will appreciate any courtesy shown them.

The Morning News should be delivered throughout the City of Waco by 6:30 a. m., and subscribers failing to receive the paper at that time will confer a favor by phoning the Circulation Department both phones 1151, and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of The Morning News will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the management.

HOSPITALITY A CITY ASSET.

Reference to the society columns of the Morning News will show that many homes of the city will have visiting bankers and their families as guests during the bankers' convention this week. And this is as it should be. From time immemorial Waco has been noted for its hospitality and now when we are emerging from the town to the city class there is none of the town traits which we should strive more diligently to preserve for the large city than that of cordial, genuine hospitality.

With a central location, ample railroad communication, creditable hotel facilities, and a naturally attractive city it is a comparatively easy task for our commercial organizations to go out and secure conventions for Waco. But that is not sufficient. When the conventions have been secured it is our duty to properly entertain them. The citizens of Waco have never failed to make the financial contributions necessary to an adequate entertainment of their guests. But there is a danger that in the multiplicity of conventions coming here this season we may grow lax in our duty toward our guests and leave the duty—and the privilege—of entertaining the visitors to the reception committees named for that purpose.

Hospitality has in the past been the most distinguishing trait of this city. It is certainly one of the most valuable assets which we can retain for the future. And though our visitors have been coming often this year, they have not come too often for us to be glad to see them, and to leave our business long enough to mingle with them, show them personally about the city, invite a few of them into our homes, and let them know beyond peradventure of a doubt that they are cordially welcome here. We have eloquent orators who will always bid them welcome in an official way. But it is the personal welcome from the business and professional men, the average citizens of the city, which makes the visitors feel that they are a source of pleasure to us, and it is this kind of a welcome which will send them away singing the praises of Waco and anxious to return at the first opportunity.

Let's try this on the bankers and then on all the other visitors who will be our guests at various intervals thereafter. Hospitality of the genuine kind is at once most valuable and our cheapest asset—most valuable in that it will count for the most for the city, and cheapest in that it can be employed at the least possible outlay on our part.

CITY NOT A COLLECTING AGENCY.

The city government was not intended to be made a collecting agency for the merchants or anybody else and it can not properly be made such. When the merchants sell goods on a credit they do so at their own risk, just as a bank lends money or a newspaper sells its advertising space. If the purpose of the proposed ordinance requiring moving and transfer concerns to keep a public record of all the families moved, with the old and new street addresses and other information is aimed to help the merchants in collecting bills, as it appears on the face of it, then the sooner such an ordinance is killed the better.

We believe every man should meet his obligations. Every honest man will make an honest effort in that direction. But when the city has passed a ruling to the effect that its employees must pay their bills or hunt another job, it has gone as far in the accommodation of the merchants as it ought to be expected to go. It is just as incumbent upon the merchants to exercise discretion in extending credit as it is upon creditors to meet those obligations, once they are incurred.

Who would have thought it? Representative Gardner of Massachusetts is pleased with President Wilson's note to Germany. Now if Theodore Roosevelt and William R. Hearst would come across it would be about unanimous.

WHERE ENGLAND CAN HELP.

In view of the fact that Germany has announced all along her willingness to desist from her submarine warfare upon the commerce of the allies if the allies would permit Germany to import food supplies for her civilian population, we think the time has come for England to consider that proposition.

Both England and France have declared that the United States would be worth much more to the cause of the allies as a neutral power than as one of their number, but if the allies insist on denying food to the German civilians and Germany should refuse to abide by the terms suggested in the American note and continue her attacks upon ships in which there are American citizens, the United States would at least be compelled to sever diplomatic relations with Germany. If not to take a more drastic course, and the moment that the United States becomes the enemy of Germany—which we hope will never come—her ability to promote the interests of all neutrals and of the combatants will be generally lessened, and the whole world will be the loser.

In our abhorrence of the ruthlessness with which German submarines have destroyed innocent women and children and non-combatants, and attacked neutral ships flying under neutral flags, we are prone to forget that England has also violated regulations and precedents of international law in her treatment of our commerce, and if by the pursuance of the British order-in-council—which would, in the opinion of some, constitute an extra-legal blockade—the allies should force starvation upon the non-combatants women and children of Germany, the offense of the allies would be less reprehensible than that of Germany only in that no neutrals were involved and that an element of warning was given.

Great Britain should issue orders that no more contraband should be placed on board the passenger ships crossing the Atlantic. The Germans have spies everywhere and it is easy for the German government to ascertain when a vessel bound for a European port has contraband aboard or is armed, and if a vessel carries contraband it is subject to German seizure. Out of regard for human life Great Britain and France should allow no passengers of any nationality aboard any vessels bearing contraband for the lives of those passengers are endangered.

With the suggestion from many quarters, within the last few days, that there is such a thing as civilized warfare we cannot agree. War is as uncivilized as it is cruel, and while there are degrees of depravity to which contending forces resort, and while Germany appears to have gone to greater depths of depravity recently than her enemies, the allies might well wash their own hands before they throw them up in holy horror. Some there are who believe that the British authorities were very glad to have American women and children aboard the Lusitania in the belief that the Germans would not fire upon the boat out of consideration for these helpless ones. We do not concur in that belief. But we are persuaded that the British authorities owe it to themselves and to the world to keep all passengers off all boats which are permitted to carry contraband of war across the ocean. There is nearly as much reason why the British should not invite the destruction of her citizens and others sailing under her flag as that Germany should not inflict that destruction.

MEN IN THE MAKING.

Human nature is largely the same the world over and those things which characterize the average American boy are found in the boys of other portions of the world, too. And those things which appeal to the red-blooded, pure-minded boy of America are pretty apt to appeal to his cousin across the water, whether that cousin be German, Italian, Belgian, Russian, or what not.

But it has not been generally supposed that those things of which the American boy is fond would appeal to the Filipino lad, but an experiment has demonstrated that they do. Last September Lieutenant Sherman Kiser of the United States Philippine Scouts, and two friends of his from New England, were sitting in a room in Jolo, capital of the Sulu archipelago, looking through a book of photographs of American Boy Scouts. As he glanced through the album, which had been brought by his friends, Lieutenant Kiser suggested the Boy Scout idea would work in the Philippines.

And when the young officer was ordered to Zamboanga, a Moro town in southwestern Mindanao, he put his idea into practice. Both sexes and all descriptions of children responded to the call for a meeting to talk over the plan. All of them were ready to take hold of the idea but only a few select ones were chosen for the experiment. These went for a hike. They sat down in the shade of a grove of coconut palms on a gentle slope of turf and listened to a description of what a Boy Scout is and what the Boy Scout laws involved. They decided they would like to be Boy Scouts.

The oath was duly taken with a spirit that indicated they appreciated what they were undertaking and each of the brown-skinned lads was presented with a Khaki Scout uniform of material suited to the climate and a campaign hat, and the officer was ready to determine whether the principles of the Boy Scout movement were adapted to these brown-skinned boys whose environment, religion and whole surroundings had been so different from those of the American boys. But the boys met the test.

"The boys are so interested and work so hard, they have done more already than I had planned for six months," Lieutenant Kiser wrote to a friend less than two months after organizing the troop. "They seem to understand everything with only one explanation. They follow me around and watch me as if I were a most wonderful being. I have to be very careful of my acts in their presence because they think I am perfect. I gave them a set of boxing gloves a few days ago. You should see them box. They are light as cats and certainly clever. They have had a couple of lessons in the destruction of bugs and worms that damage the coconut trees. Besides they are daily putting the Boy Scout laws into action. I also bought some large baskets, brooms, garden rakes, and grass cutters, and the boys are attempting to clean up their village. By bringing them up to the post and showing them our clean roads and houses they have been helped a lot. I am going to have them make a special call at my house tomorrow afternoon, and I am going to treat them as if they were well-bred gentlemen.

"I think that if the Boy Scouts could have plenty of good masters here in the Philippines it would do more toward the civilization of these people than anything else I know of, because so much more can be done with the boy's mind. I have noticed with my Boy Scouts that I can get them to do anything without the least trouble. They are more keen about the things that are instructive and worth while than they are about the worthless. They seem eager for knowledge."

Commenting upon the progress the Moro boys made, the Outlook says: "Not only did the boys learn how to protect the valuable coconut trees against the attacks of parasites and to conduct clean-up campaigns, but they put their instruction in first aid to the injured into practice upon a dog with an injured leg, one of the earliest known instances of a display of kindness to dumb animals on the part of a Moro boy. More than this, they so behaved that the antipathetic attitude of the white population of Zamboanga toward them was changed to one of marked respect. They had become clean little Scouts. One army doctor was so impressed that he gave each member of the patrol a first aid kit. It is recorded that when the troop was formed the boys wanted guns, but as they became imbued with the spirit of the Boy Scout laws they forgot entirely their interest in firearms.

"A boy's a boy for a' that, even if he is a Moro boy."

A MODEL UNIVERSITY.

The inauguration of Edward K. Graham as president of the University of North Carolina calls attention to the notable progress of that oldest of state universities in making itself an efficient servant of the commonwealth, observes the New York Evening Post. The work of Mr. Graham, as dean and acting president, has for nearly ten years been an example to other Southern institutions of the same sort. While the activities of the university have followed the general lines laid down in Middle Western education, they have in some ways been original. Night schools have been established for negroes, correspondence courses for industrial workers, summer school courses for public school teachers, rural life conferences for those interested in the improvement of rural conditions, the road institutes for the builders of a permanent system of county and state highways. Package libraries reach nearly 500 communities, and a series of extension bulletins has been scattered broadcast to interest the state in questions relating to school, home and city and state government. The "community service week" initiated by the university has been made a state event. In his inaugural address President Graham indicated that the extension service would be given increased attention and already a special bureau has been provided to carry it on. What has been done thus far has been upon an income probably less than one-tenth that of the Universities of Illinois or Wisconsin. In other Southern states—Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi—there is a field as wide as in North Carolina; their undernourished state universities should find inspiration in the work of their neighbor.

One of the main reasons why Southern state universities have been ill-supported is that it has been usual to separate the liberal arts and agricultural colleges, and to establish separate women's colleges. The Southern tradition does not regard poverty of means and liberal educational development as altogether incompatible, while the agricultural and mechanics-arts colleges have been looked upon as inferior. A vigorous central institution would have related cultural education with education for economic development, have showed that generous financial support would repay itself many times over, and appealed to state pride. In recent years, again, there has been a feeling that primary school improvement was the all-important need. But government statistics show that the legislatures' parsimony is altogether unjustifiable. From all sources, the income of the Universities of Alabama, Arkansas, Mississippi and South Carolina in 1913 was less than $175,000 each; that of the Universities of Florida, Louisiana and Georgia less than $280,000 each. Yet the University of California enjoys an income of over $3,000,000 yearly, the University of Minnesota one of about $2,500,000. A program designed to minister to the all-round development of the state is probably the surest means of leading Southern lawmakers to provide adequately for the higher institutions of learning.

Texas suffragists are not ready to join the peace party movement yet. The suffragists are willing to have peace, all right, but no less without the ballot than without honor.

By way of suggestion, suppose you go to church today and express your gratitude for the beautiful health-giving, crop-growing weather we have had during the past week.

TEXAS POWER & LIGHT COMPANY TO MOVE

NEW QUARTERS HAVE BEEN SECURED ON SIXTH, SIDE OF MASONIC TEMPLE.

Up-to-date Offices and Salerooms to Be Prepared—Fixtures Made in Waco.

With the idea of getting into closer and more congenial touch with the buying public as well as for the need of more room the Texas Power and Light company has leased a new home and work preparing the space and remodeling has already been started in their prospective office in the Masonic Temple, facing on Sixth street. They are preparing an up-to-date office and saleroom. The office is to be fitted with every modern convenience and of easy access to the public. The books of the company will be put on what is known as a book omnibus, a rolling truck which will be run along by the counter so that any one can be served from any point with ease and convenience and without the customary loss of time. A broad counter will run all the way around the office enclosure, while the manager and new business department will have private offices.

A big sale room, well lighted and airy will be arranged so as to give a good display to the articles handled by the company. The lighting effect will be the nitrogen mazda lamps giving a clear, white light, easy on the eyes yet giving a bright light that will make everything distinct and in a good clear vision. In their present quarters, the public is at a loss to tell to what department it is that they are addressing, according to F. L. Booth, assistant manager, and the idea in the new office is to make every one know just where they want to go and be able to go there, thus giving better service and creating the feeling that the company is really interested in its patrons and doing away with the corporation atmosphere that has been prevalent in the present quarters caused from the lack of room and fresh air.

When asked as to where the fixtures were made he replied that, "You can find this down in your note book—when we put in anything new, it is made in Waco if possible, and when we can't get it here we order it. You will not need to ask us that any time in the future."

Letters from the People

Mayor Higgins Rocking the Boat? Waco, Tex., May 12, 1915.

To the Waco Morning News:
Now, Brother Higgins, have you already forgotten the president's admonition not to rock the boat?

Do you not think that sending such messages as you sent to the president is rocking the boat rather violently and unnecessarily?

Do you not realize that by so doing you are disseminating prejudices and animosity right here among your own people?

Can there be any possible advantage in such proceedings?

If any American citizens, after having been duly warned, choose to ride an English powder-barrel through the war zone and come to grief, why should we get excited? We certainly can and do sympathize with the unfortunate, but sending such a message to the president can not alleviate any of the suffering, but must tend to aggravate the evil.

If humanitarian proclivities impel us to accomplish some real good, then it might not be amiss to read some of Miss Edwards' reports and thus it would be seen that there is an abundance of suffering to be alleviated at home. Indeed, much of this suffering could be prevented by a government that were more humanitarian and less commercial.

JNO STRAUSS.

Would Warn the Speeders.

To the Waco Morning News:

There have been many tragic accidents in Waco at dangerous street intersections, most of them caused by fast driving of automobiles.

I believe that the vast majority of auto owners properly regard the lives and welfare of pedestrians, but I fear that just a few do not. In this connection would it not be proper for the city's department of public safety to cause to be suspended at such places as Eighteenth and Austin, Eighteenth and Jefferson, Fifth and Herring, Sixth and Columbus and all other places where there is danger, warning signs such as "Slow Down" or "Prudently Slow" or "Danger—Look Out" for the protection of all our people? The old cross sign at railroad crossings, "Railroad Crossing, Look Out for the Cars," no doubt has caused people to be cautious and has probably saved lives. There is danger as it is now. "Safety first."

S. M. N.

Personal Liberty.

To the Waco Morning News:

The brewers have been for some time in their "campaign for education" teaching the inexperienced, through the daily press by pictures and cunningly worded advertisements, to regard the men of revolutionary fame as advocates of untrammelled license in drink. Why is it that the writers and editors, now so much concerned about personal liberty, are nearly all on the saloon side of the question? One and all, their only argument that prohibition endangers liberty, personal or other, is the most prohibiting men from making money by degrading humanity. They offer no defense, no excuse for the saloon. They know that it is an insidious, law-defying pest house and admit that it must be under police surveillance, crying out in the next breath that you destroy liberty if you destroy the pest house.

Is personal liberty such a "manly cur" as to require the aid of the saloon to keep it alive? If so good a thing, does it need be preserved by the greatest known evil? Must the saloon rule that we be free? Must liberty be preserved by that most malevolent thing that must first be chained, like a dog, in the presence of great calamities and dangers? The saloon is not allowed to have any part where society is threatened. Its mission is making drunkards and saving personal liberty.

Tutors, "Tooters" and Politicians.

To the Waco Morning News:
I would kindly thank The News for space to make rather an unimportant correction in your report of the proceedings of the commission on the matter of city concerns for this season. The statement made that Taz W. McClellan, a "tutor" of Prof. Alessandro, challenged the statement of the mayor in regard to Prof. Alessandro's band organization being a political organization.

First, I am a man 52 years of age, and was put into "band work" forty years ago, was connected with band organizations for thirty-two years consecutively. My statement was that I belonged to the "tooter class," said remark being made because the mayor had, at a former meeting, asked me, as the secretary of the Musicians' union, if our organization was not composed largely of "tooters."

I wish to make this further statement in regard to Prof. Alessandro's band organization being a "political machine." I am accused of being the only politician in that organization. I plead guilty to the charge and will say that I have actively supported the mayor in all three of his campaigns in the last six years, and I will, through your kindness, take this means of making a public apology for the mistake I have made, and further promise to do so no more.

Separate Blouses.

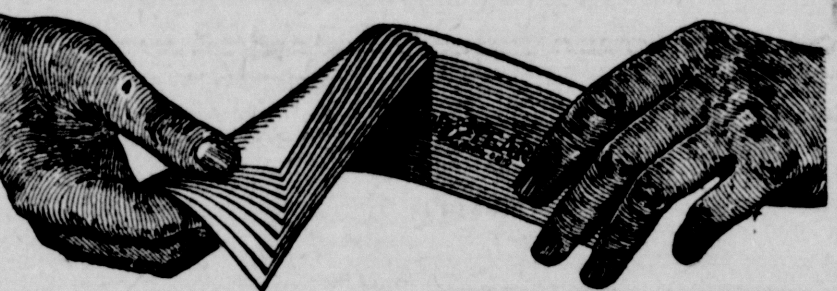

Separate blouses are almost entirely for plain coat suits. There are few elaborate coat suits, and the one piece frock has shelved the expensive and ornamental separate waist. These suit blouses are made of wash fabrics, fasten in the front and have both high and low collars. The plaited ruffle down the front and the loose cascade at the neck have both appeared. The sleeves are small and reach to the wrists, where they are finished with a turnover cuff.

For Coughs and Colds.

For colds and coughs take two tablespoonfuls of molasses, a tablespoonful of vinegar, half a teaspoonful of baking soda and a small piece of butter. Then put on stove to boil. Give a teaspoonful every hour till relieved.

Leakless Inner Tubes

Goodyear Laminated Tubes Built Layer on Layer—Extra Thick

Here is something every motorist should know.

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are built of many thin layers—each of pure rubber—vulcanized together. No flaw can be hidden in a thick piece of rubber. It is seen and eliminated. Every layer is perfect.

Such a Tube can't leak. And our valve patch can't leak, because it is part of the Tube and not stuck on.

Remember that. Many a tire trouble is due to leaky Tubes.

Tube prices this year are reduced 20 per cent. So these layer Tubes, extra-thick, now cost about the same as others.

Always Gray

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are not colored. They are gray—the natural pure rubber color. Color requires a large percentage of mineral adulteration. And minerals hold heat, a Tube's worst enemy.

Whatever tires you use, get Goodyear Tubes. They will outlast your tires, save you leaks and trouble. They will also convert you to Goodyear

14% Heavier

Goodyear Laminated Tubes are extra heavy. They have always outworn any tire. But this year we have added 14 per cent to their average thickness—all pure rubber

Postmasters Urged to Attend State Convention Here

Notices have been sent to all the delegates and prospective visitors of the Postmasters' Association and to the Postmasters' League urging them to attend the meetings to be held here May 25, 26 and 27, and assuring them a good time in connection with the regular business sessions of the convention. The sessions will probably be held in the rooms of the federal court on the third floor if the consent of the treasury department can be obtained. The consent of Federal Judge T. S. Maxey has already been given. Quite an attractive program has been arranged and it is expected to have some speakers make addresses well up in the federal mail affairs. An invitation has been sent to Postmaster General Burleson to make an address and several other men of prominence are expected.

The convention will have delegates both from the Texas Postmasters' Association and the Texas Postmasters' League.

League, composed of postmasters in the first and second division and in the third and fourth respectively. The officers of the Postmasters' Association are: President, S. S. McClendon, Tyler; first vice president, J. L. Burke, Elgin; second vice president, T. J. Oden, Lindale; third vice president, Miss Lily Wilson, Hutto; fourth vice president, W. J. Beck, Kaufman; secretary-treasurer, A. N. Justiss, Corsicana.

The officers of the league are: President, S. G. Dean, Haskell; first vice president, Mrs. Minnie E. Cope, Avin; second vice president, Mrs. M. L. McConnell, Jourdanton; third vice president, J. H. Dulaney, Leakey; fourth vice president, J. A. Haywood, Moran; fifth vice president, W. E. Sholer, Humble; secretary treasurer, S. G. Reid, Oglesby.

Quimet Wins Cup

Brookline, Mass., May 15.—Francis Quimet, national amateur golf champion, today won the Country club spring cup. Starting the week by taking the Baltimore cup at Baltimore, Quimet came to the links on which he defeated Vardon and Ray in 1913 and proved himself the best golfer of a field of 136 players. His opponent in the finals was J. M. Clafin, whom he defeated 5 up, 4 to play.

Negro Shot in Arm by Officer in an Attempt to Escape

A bullet from the revolver of Policeman Frank Blair broke the right arm of John Hearst, 16-year-old negro, early yesterday afternoon, when the officer had surprised him stealing brass plumbing fixtures from a house on Garland avenue, between Fifth and Sixth streets. Officer Blair caught the wounded negro near Fifteenth and Trice streets.

After examination by Dr. M. B. Baker, city physician, at the city hall, the boy was taken to Providence sanitarium. The negro's brother, Jake, 11 years old, who was also found in the house, and who escaped from Mr. Blair, was captured yesterday afternoon by Chief McNamara. Police noon have had many reports of theft of plumbing fixtures from vacant houses in the city, and some arrests have been made.

Methodist Women Hold Interesting All-day Session

The Methodist Federation of Missionary Societies met in regular session on last Thursday at Herring Avenue church. Mrs. Logan gave the words of welcome in behalf of Herring Avenue Missionary Auxiliary. After which the regular routine of business occupied most of the morning session.

Mrs. R. L. Abbott, chairman of the orphanage committee, stated that it had decided to place $500 towards the domestic science equipment. This is to be done on completion of the new building.

Dr. Burroughs, of the orphanage, said: "We propose breaking ground on the first day of June for our new building which will cost us nearly $30,000. I am very glad that the ladies have very kindly agreed to give us $500. That will not be enough but will be a great help and I am sure that Methodism in Texas is waking up to the importance of doing something worth while for the orphanage. The fact that grieves me most is that at present we have no means to equip a girl; if we should let them leave the home many could only be servants. This would not be right. Would you want your daughter to go out as a servant? I would not want mine to."

"I invite you to visit the orphanage today or at any time to suit your convenience."

Rev. McCain explained the architect's drawing of the new orphanage building. He said there would be 144 feet floor space, more floor space than the largest building now on the ground, and the building will be modern and practically fire proof. The first floor will be of cement, this to be used for the domestic science under the tutelage of one of the very best teachers, Mrs. Burbank, daughter of Dr. Burroughs. There are to be three other buildings put up later: a laundry, workshop and a hospital. This will practically double the capacity of the home. There have been something like 200 turned away this year on account of room, notwithstanding that beds have been put in the halls to accommodate more children. The sanitary condition of the home speaks for itself for out of the 150 children there is not one sick.

At this point Rev. F. Brown rose to pay tribute to Dr. Burroughs, while he yet lives. In part he said:

"I don't believe there is a man in Texas who could have done what Dr. Burroughs has done in the two and one-half years in this home. Just think of the improved conditions. Often in a family of five or six children it is hard to keep them all well and today his family of 150 are up and about their duties, and these orphans have such a noble life lived before them in that of their father, Dr. R. A. Burroughs."

The delegates direct from the Gatesville conference made reports. Mrs. M. B. Willis, on the social feature, mentioned the special music, reception and trip to the training school for boys. Mrs. Shelby Cosgrove, the spiritual atmosphere, said that she believed every delegate got religion before leaving home and came to the conference to do the Master's bidding.

Mrs. S. C. Gage came home fully convinced that the young people's work in the Missionary Societies is the most important. She announced that the first vice president of the conference, Mrs. J. B. Price, was planning a summer outing for the young people at Glen Rose and that she hoped many from here would attend and get the benefit of the instructions to be given by trained workers.

Mrs. R. L. Abbott gave a financial report of the conference, saying that $20,000 was collected in 1914, this being $1,000 less than in 1913, due to the strenuous condition of the entire country.

Mrs. B. C. Nettles surprised the audience when she stated that there are only 198 missionary societies leaving 394 pastor's charges without them. Only one-fifth of the women in the church are in the missionary society.

Mrs. W. L. Perry, recently returned from a visit to the Methodist training school, known as "Scarritt Bible and Training School," where girls are educated for missionaries and deaconesses, gave a beautiful description of the building and the life of the girls in training. She said the Tennessee conference had just given them a Baby Grand piano. There are sixty-five girls there this year. Last year there were ninety.

Each missionary society sends $4 per year to keep up this school. Miss Brewer and Miss Cawley each rendered beautiful vocal selections.

Miss Wemyss told the story of Daniel in a most impressive way. Mrs. J. W. Downs at the quiet hour, gave the fourth chapter of John, bringing out the woman of Samaria and Jesus, saying as Dr. Gordon of the council was often heard to say "Jesus drew the crowd and the crowd drew Jesus."

Mrs. Mayes of Hillsboro opened the afternoon session with prayer.

Mrs. W. J. Wiley stated that at present there are within the co-operative home two or three girls who have no other place to call home. Miss Ethel Jackson, recently returned to the work of the co-operative home, gave a talk on the workings of the council and the meeting just held at Little Rock.

Miss Truly Richmond, missionary from Brazil, gave a very interesting talk on the ways of the people in that Latin country.

Let on the program was an address by the president of the Central Texas conference, Mrs. J. W. Downs, this being very educational and entertaining. Her closing remarks were: "Let the women do the woman's part first, then help on general things; thereby not letting our women's missionary work suffer for help."

The following resolution was adopted: "Resolved, that this body endorse unanimously the action of the City Federation in asking the housekeepers of Waco to desist from Sunday buying."

It was decided to present the auxiliary with the largest per cent of members present a pennant which they were to keep until next meeting when the per cent would again be counted. Herring avenue was a forenoon church at this meeting, having almost half their members out. The count showed the following standings:

Herring Avenue, 48 per cent; Clay Street, 44; Morrow Street, 38; Fifth Street, 25; Elm Street, 23; Austin Avenue, 18.

This closed the day, with many words of comment on the good day spent, and the lovely luncheon served at Cameron park.

Negro School Sells Peas to Sanger Ave. School Lunch Room

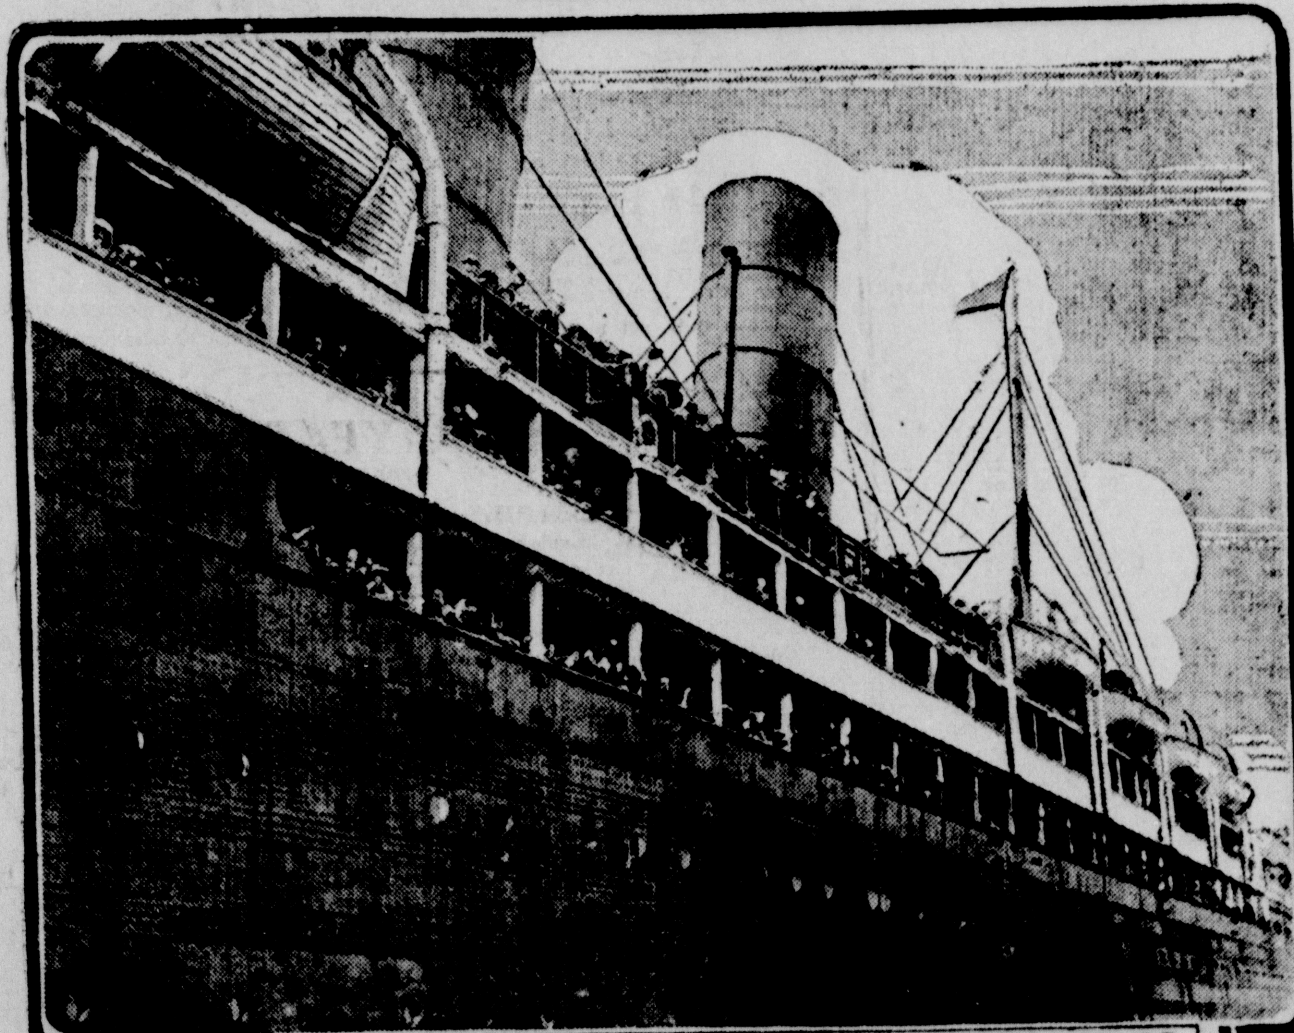

Fresh English garden peas, raised by the negro school in East Waco, formed one of the favorite articles on the bill of fare at the Sanger Avenue school last week. Principal J. H. Hines of the East Waco school telephoned Principal B. W. Glasgow of the Sanger Avenue school that he would send him three buckets full of peas if he could use them. And the Sanger Avenue school took them, paying the full market price, although they were offered free.

For several months the Sanger Avenue school has been conducting a lunch room, where savory dishes are served the children at noon for a minimum price. By careful management it has been made self supporting. The peas, however, were out of the ordinary, and were much enjoyed.

The East Waco school is making a specialty of gardening this year. The pupils, under the direction of their teachers, are learning to raise vegetables, which fact is attracting much favorable comment.

Card of Thanks. Mrs. R. R. Gibson and children wish to express their thanks to friends for kindness shown to them during husband and father's illness and death, also for the beautiful floral offerings.

Peruna
Cured me

Mrs. Anna Linder, R. F. D. 5, Dassel, Meeker Co., Minn., writes: "For two years I suffered with that terrible disease, chronic catarrh. Fortunately, I saw your advertisement in my paper. I got your advice and I took Peruna. Now I am well and the mother of two children. I owe it all to Peruna."

I cannot express my thanks for the good your medicine has done me and my family. This spring I took cold and it settled in my kidneys. I took Peruna and in a few days I was all right."

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 209 Victory St., Little Rock, Ark., writes: "I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me; I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good. A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use until I am sound and well."

Fine men and women all over this country are glad to testify to the merits of Peruna as a household remedy. Peruna is the leader as a catarrh medicine. For coughs and colds Peruna has no superior. It is also extensively used as a grip remedy.

Sponsor Is Named for Texas Veterans Richmond Reunion

Miss Katie Daffan, of Austin and Ennis, will be the sponsor for the Texas division, United Confederate Veterans, at the national reunion which will be held in Richmond, Va., June 1 to 3. The appointment was announced yesterday by General Felix H. Robertson of Crawford, commander of the Texas division, who also named Miss Florence Brownlee of Austin as maid of honor.

The possibility of holding the next reunion in Waco looms larger with the approach of the time for the reunion in Richmond. Commander Gus H. West of the Pat Cleburne Camp, U. C. V., has received a letter from a comrade in Antlers, Oklahoma, in which it is stated that every camp in that state will support Waco for the next reunion. Mr. West has been sounding sentiment in the various states, which is holding the reunion here and states that he has met with a great deal of encouragement.

Temple Is After Y M B L Convention

Temple, Tex., May 15.—That a vigorous effort will be made to capture the 1916 convention of Texas Young Men's Business Leagues for this city is evidenced by the activity shown in that connection by the Young Men's Business League of this city, which has elected a big delegation to represent it at the state convention of the Texas Y. M. B. L. at Fort Worth on May 17.

The delegation has adopted as its slogan, "Tain't Far to Temple" and will use this effectively in advertising matter and in other ways. The following delegates will attend the Fort Worth meeting: J. E. Love, S. H. Shutt, E. E. Duffield, C. B. McLain, Ed Spill, E. O. Englebrecht, R. L. Tennant, R. F. Morgan, R. S. Spann, C. E. Maedgen, R. D. Field, W. F. Lucas, R. E. Campbell, C. E. McKeehan, E. Annual Junior Play "Football Romance" Is Given at Baylor

"A Football Romance," a four act play depicting college life with a delightful coloring of humor, was presented by members of the junior class of Baylor university in Carroll chapel last night. This was the annual play of the class and one of the amateur dramatic features of the college year.

A good crowd was present and the production was well received. The play takes up a popular thread of college experience of bidding for fame through various methods and finally brings out the hero of the college type, meantime bringing out interesting college characters. The character of the senior, junior, sophomore and freshmen, together with the frat house, the athletic interests and the rooters' chorus—all the ear-marks of college life found expression in the play.

Specialties between acts were furnished by the Baylor Saxophone quartet, consisting of H. C. Taylor, Wylie Weatherford, C. M. Smith, Robert Blake, with C. D. Daniels at the piano. The following is the list of the players and their roles:

Malcolm Thorndyke, a wealthy manufacturer.....J. W. McDavid
Roland Underwood, a senior.....C. D. Daniel
David Graham, a junior.....H. V. Nigro
Phil Morley, a sophomore.....A. L. Mitchell
Fred Teneyck, a sophomore.....F. A. Goddard
Richard Thorndyke, a freshman.....F. Soape
Algermon Leigh, a freshman.....E. H. Farrington
Mr. Harris, a money lender.....P. Isbill
Sheila, a trainee.....H. G. Kennedy
Mrs. Susanna Thorndyke, wife of Malcolm.....Genevieve Warren

R. C. B. SOCIETY ENTERTAINED BY ERISOPHIANS, THE SENIOR CLASS BY JUNIORS.

ALLISON IS BURLESON FELLOW

Graduating Recitals of Miss Sallie Keith and Miss Mattie Watson to Be Given This Week.

The young women of the Rufus C. Burleson literary society were guests of the brother-society, the Erisophian literary society, in a jubilation and enlightenment meeting in the Sophie hall last Friday evening. The gayety-fest was well attended and a new venture in stirring up enthusiasm for the closing weeks of school was declared to be very successful by the society leaders. Gerald S. Craig of Olton is president of the Erisophians and Miss Minnie Crouch of Temple heads the R. C. B. society.

A brief program, refreshments and an informal reception were the order of the evening. The program consisted of a cornet duet by Smith and Behrman, piano selection, Miss Reba Funk; vocal solo, Miss Louise Head; address, G. B. Rogers, and selection by the Sophie quartet, Cox, Behrman, Morrow and Managan. The arrangements for the evening were in charge of a committee consisting of Clyde Penrod, Joe Baines and Misses Vera Humphrey and Ruby Bennett.

Members of the junior class of the university were hosts to the senior class in the upper class reception held on the campus of Baylor Thursday night. On the beautiful campus, brightly lighted and arranged for the functions, with music, refreshments and class stunts, the 150 classmates enjoyed themselves for two hours in the characteristic collegian style. John McDavid of Henderson is president of the juniors, and W. H. Managan Jr. of Lake Charles, La., is president of the seniors. The committee on arrangements of the junior class consisted of Bruce Schukkey, Paul Ishill, Louis Quicksall and Misses Hallie Wood, Ruby Bennett and Nannie Halbert.

Irl Allison, Burleson Fellow. Irl Allison of Call, probably the youngest member of the senior class of Baylor, was announced as the Rufus C. Burleson fellow in English next year by the faculty committee in charge yesterday. The fellowship is open to seniors who plan to do graduate work in English at Baylor.

It is awarded annually by the Alumni association of the university and the selection of the fellow is made by a committee consisting of Prof. W. H. Pool, dean of the Baylor academy; Dr. A. J. Armstrong and Miss Miriam Buck.

"In a Balcony," the first play of Robert W. Burleson, the English play, probably to be given in Texas, will be presented at fresco at the home of Dr. A. J. Armstrong, Seventh and Dutton streets, next Tuesday night.

In addition to the play, there will be a musical program, and a toast program with Harry Nigro of Belton as master of ceremonies. The evening is given by the Erisophian society, under the direction of Dr. Armstrong, head of the department and instructor of the class.

Leading roles of the open-air presentation will be played by Miss Lurline Mosley of Waco as Constance, J. E. Burkhardt Jr. of Houston as Norbert and Miss Mary Quidy Harrison of Greenville as the queen. Miss Genevieve Warren will be the chairman of the committee in charge of the decorations.

Graduating Recital.
Miss Sallie Keith of Waco, well known to music lovers of the city through her singing as soloist for two years at the Jewish synagogue and St. Paul's Episcopal church for two years and as a soloist with the Baylor Glee club last year, will be presented in graduation voice recital by her teachers, Prof. E. E. Egbert of Baylor, in Carroll chapel next Wednesday at 5 o'clock. Miss Keith was one of the fascinating trio of Yum Yum sisters in the recent "Mikado" production.

Her program will be as follows: "Come to the Garden, Love".....Salter
"The Pine Tree".....Salter
"I Hear a Thrush at Eve".....Cadman
"Non la Sospiri la Nostra Casetta" (from "Tosca").....Purini
"Nymphs and Shepherds".....Purcell
"Lob des Fruchlings".....Egbert
"The Seasons".....MacFadyen
Miss Mattie Watson of Richardson, pupil of Dr. Joseph Evans of the Baylor department of fine arts, will appear in graduating piano recital in Carroll chapel next Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock. Miss Watson has an especially interesting program, consisting of numbers from Schumann, Beethoven, Loeschhorn, Henselt, Chopin, MacDowell and Mendelssohn.

Mr. Evans will play orchestral parts on second piano.

An innovation to the daily singing in Baylor's chapel exercises that met with the hearty indorsement of the students was begun last week in the nature of reviving old Baylor songs, ballads and the singing of popular airs. The songs were collected and printed for that purpose by Dr. A. J. Armstrong. They will be sung weekly by the students and chapel choir under the direction of Mr. Joseph Evans.

Sixty From Waco Will Go to State Y. M. B. L. Meeting

At list of sixty who have promised to go to Fort Worth on the "President's Special" Monday morning to attend the meeting of the Young Men's Business Leagues of Texas, was made up following the work of the teams yesterday afternoon. Chairman A. G. Steele reported that more than twenty-five tickets had already been sold. The "President's Special" will leave Waco over the interurban at 7:10 tomorrow morning, going by way of Dallas and arriving in Fort Worth about noon. Delegates will be allowed to return on any of the cars that leave Fort Worth and Dallas every hour within the two-day limit. Stop-overs will be allowed in Dallas.

Baby's Happiness Depends on Health

Cross, fretful babies usually need a laxative to make them comfortable, and comfort begets happiness. Constipation is the cause of much discomfort. Mothers should watch closely the condition of their children's bowels and see that they are regular.

A mild, pleasant tasting laxative such as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is ideal for children because of its natural composition and gentle action, and because it contains no opiate, narcotic or other harmful habit forming drug. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sold by druggists everywhere. A spoonful at bedtime will bring easy certain relief.

A free trial bottle can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 452 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

Tuesday night, a general reception will hold in the Higgins messianine. Here wives of bankers, officials and directors are the reception committee to entertain guests. From there adjournment will be had for a dance at the Progress club. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Gardner are directing details.

Wednesday afternoon this same reception party will reassemble at the Huaco club to welcome the electric car party, formed at the Higgins messianine and held Dorothy Perkins buds. Guests greeted and Miss Hawkins introduced, Miss Gilla May Whitman read some original verses, during which she told the love story. This prepared the way for the toasts between courses, where Miss Earl Gurley toasted the bride and Miss Whitman responded to Miss Gurley. Adjournment from the luncheon found the party in boxes at the Queen.

Beyond her circle of personal friends, Miss Whitman through her gift as a story teller has become widely known both in and out of Waco. Thus, the message of the blue bird that the happiness of married life is before her, is cause for widespread interest.

Mr. Gurley is just "Davis Gurley," known by everybody and esteemed by everybody for his personality as well as because he is the last bachelor from one of the oldest and largest family connections in the city.

The place cards bore the names of four hostesses, Miss Hawkins, the Misses Earl and Lula Gurley, with the Mesdames Jennie Moore, Ora Lee Edwards, Regia Flanagan, Elizabeth Doak, Agnes Arbuckle, Lorine Higginbotham, Emily Spruce.

WEDDING DATE ANNOUNCED FOR GURLEY-WHITMAN

Suspicion had strongly pointed to the event which was formally ratified on Saturday, that of the coming marriage of Miss Nell Sue Whitman and Davis R. Gurley. But suspicion had not foretold the date, which was announced on Saturday as the last day of June. Invitations were issued by the sisters, the Mesdames John Gurley, James Sampson and Wallace Fraser, with Miss Gilla May Whitman to honor Miss Modena Hawkins of Waxahatchie, with a formal luncheon. Covers were laid for fourteen and the theme of the Blue Bird, the harbinger of happiness, ran through the tale.

Please Use The Ice Card, Madam!

On the Days When You Want

ICE!

Of course YOU know when you need ice, but the driver cannot know, unless the ice-card signal is hanging out to tell him. This is one of the most important ways, Madam, that you can assist us in improving YOUR ice service.

It is easy for the regular driver to keep your needs in mind; but drivers are human and sometimes get sick. The new man would be sure to pass by you unless your ice card was out.

Won't you do this to help us help YOU? The driver will supply you with a neat card. Pick out a convenient place, easily seen from the street, and hang the card out on the days you want ice; indicating how many pounds. Have the wagon stop regularly—pure ice is the most healthful and satisfying of summer's comforts.

ble appointments. The only relief to the blue and the bird came in the crystal rose bowl which centered the table and held Dorothy Perkins buds. Guests greeted and Miss Hawkins introduced, Miss Gilla May Whitman read some original verses, during which she told the love story. This prepared the way for the toasts between courses, where Miss Earl Gurley toasted the bride and Miss Whitman responded to Miss Gurley. Adjournment from the luncheon found the party in boxes at the Queen.

Society Notes

Miss Enrique Smith will entertain the Eudage Juniors in their game on Tuesday.

The latest news from Mrs. W. S. Gillespie and the Misses Gillespie is that they have arrived in San Francisco.

Mrs. Cullen Cooper, whose movements remain of interest here, is now doing chair work in one of the Dallas churches.

Mrs. Kyle Vick being released from the sanitarium has joined the Vick household, North Fifteenth street near Jefferson.

Mrs. Jerome C. Beam is due from Atlanta at an early date, to spend several weeks with her mother, Mrs. F. M. Gardner.

Waco women who will have guests during the Bankers' Convention are requested to furnish their names to these to the editor of the Morning News.

We note now that the white covers for the bridge table are in, the finish of one's initials on each cover. Why not, since we embroider other pieces of linen?

The Merry Robbins postponed their session this week from the accustomed Thursday until Saturday when Miss Bertha Moore was the hostess in the home of Mrs. John Strauss.

As home guests for the Bankers' Convention, Dr. and Mrs. K. H. Ayres, who will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Fred Abney from Brownwood and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bryan from Yoakum.

The Morning News is pleased to receive all possible items pertaining to the activities of Waco women, but, positively, as has been stated repeatedly, these must be furnished promptly.

As a result of their Peace Pageant financially, the King's Daughters and those who assisted them have about thirty dollars to add to their fund with which to educate a girl in mission school of China.

Surely we will meet all our friends, and we hope no enemies, in California this season. They say five thousand Texans have signified their intention of crossing the desert to reach the beautiful Golden Gate.

The appearance of the women's division in the Elks parade gave evidence that, riding astride is by no means a uniform habit with the women. The argument has never been settled, as to which mount is safer and healthier for the woman rider.

It was not the Waco women, but one very near by, who gave evidence in court for a breach of promise suit that she was positive the man was guilty, for she heard with her own ears his telephone promise that he would send the damsel in question "The ring and the book."

Relief to the ice men seems voluntary, now that the City Federation has agitated the subject. One man reported yesterday that forty of his customers, even before 10 o'clock, had spoken double delivery in order to give a Sunday rest to the driver and the delivered of the ice.

A letter received late in the week from Mrs. J. L. Burness refutes the impression here that Dr. Burgess' mother had passed away in Tennessee. She had been very, very ill and Dr. Burgess with Mrs. Burgess left upon the news that her condition was critical. The letter of Saturday reports some change for the better. Do let us have the flags over the Old Spring and Cameron park waving to the breeze while the bankers are with us. Let us manifest patriotism, state and national, to the many out of Texas guests who will be here. Had the Henry Downs chapter not better give attention to this? And what about the flags in our school yards?

"Pity 'tis, 'tis true," that those who luxuriate in an automobile never seem to have a thought for the humble driver of the vehicle. The automobile can be parked at any spot, then why stop it where the vehicle can not reach the rings and other conveniences for hitching? Remember, the horse must be tied, and yet, there are blocks and blocks with cars obstructing the hitching places. It is the same old thing, thought of nothing but self. Just a look towards the sidewalk, and a few turns of the wheel further would be untold convenience to many.

Is it not strange how the passage of time perverts meanings and customs? Does it not grate upon our reverence for mourning, a recent authority says, is the relic of barbaric superstition, a badge that some one within the home is victim of the dreaded plague. All who attend one so stricken are compelled to wear of the black. How different from the message of our mourning today!

We are ever interested in that unique and artistic little people, the Japanese. Do you know the poetic way in which they choose designs for their costumes, those very kimonos which we have adopted as one of our very own? When a child is born the members of the family congregate, to choose a flower or an insect, which shall be the emblem of that child. This done, each member exercises his skill in making an attractive design. From among these one is selected to adorn for the rest of the child's life every article of his clothing. It seems that family crests may no part; it is rather individuality.

Among today's departures will be that of Miss Marie Chambers of Memphis, who has spent several weeks among her old home friends. She goes for a visit in Houston.

Mrs. J. Forsythe Rowe of Nashville, Tenn., arrived the latter part of the week to spend the summer months here. Dr. Rowe will close their apartment in the Elmore court and join Mrs. Rowe here on June 15.

Will Opportunity Find You Fit?

That's the idea—fit physically—fit mentally. And it's largely a matter of right living—which includes the right kind of food.

Grape-Nuts

is not only good tasting, but contains all the nutriment of wheat and barley, including the mineral elements so vital for building sturdy bodies, brains and nerves.

Grape-Nuts is scientifically prepared for easy digestion and assimilation. A delicious, nourishing, economical food for making one "fit" and ready for opportunity.

Build Up Your Baby's Strength

Give him the right food. More babies die as a result of the wrong food than from any other cause, and it is so unnecessary. When your milk fails and you find you can't nurse your baby, give him the food on which three generations of boys and girls have grown healthy and strong—

Nestlé's Food

In Nestlé's there is everything your baby needs to make his little body plump, his cheeks rosy and his eyes bright. Pure cow's milk is its basis—but cow's milk is so changed and modified, and with baby needs added, that your little baby can digest it just as easily as mother's milk. Add cold water and boil, and you have a Food your baby will thrive on. Cow's milk alone will not do for your baby. It is dangerously full of germs which may carry disease to your baby. There are only eight clean dairies in a hundred in this country. And, besides, cow's milk is too heavy and indigestible for your baby's delicate stomach.

Let us send you a big box of Nestlé's—enough for twelve feedings—and our Book on the care of Babies. Send the coupon today. Your baby's health depends on his food.

A Short History of the Greatest Hotel in the South; Not the Biggest, but the Best

For over twenty years the citizens of Waco have felt keenly and talked loudly the need of a good hotel. Commercial bodies for years combed the world to find a party who would build Waco a first class hotel.

They made a proposition to give $50,000 and they called on the world to witness what they thought a liberal offer. No outsider responded to said offer. The commercial bodies imposed very strong conditions and made such requirements that it was difficult to find a man who would undertake it.

Believing that this movement meant a united Waco, and a booster for the hotel, J. W. Riggins accepted the offer and built one of the most complete, best equipped, up-to-date hotels in the entire South. The fact is that hundreds of people have stopped at The Riggins, and said that this hotel would be a credit to the largest cities in America. Not the biggest, but among the best.

Four gentlemen from Los Angeles, Cal., in the lobby of the hotel said to the owner: "This hotel would have been a credit to Los Angeles, and we think we have the best hotels in the world."

The Riggins is as much the product and child of Waco as is the Cotton Palace, and should have the same loyal boosting as the Cotton Palace. Its success or failure is as valuable to Waco as the success or failure of the Cotton Palace, and it represents an investment greater than any six hotels in Waco.

It has all modern protections of being fire proof, ten stories of comfort and safety, with every room an outside room, and is the only hotel in Central Texas where you can "sleep where life is safe." Daily you see accounts of where people have been burned to death in fire-trap hotels. The Riggins is a safe place to sleep.

When you stop at The Riggins it puts you in the highest class. It gives the party you speak to a better opinion of you and of Waco. If anyone visits Waco and does not visit The Riggins, then Waco is the loser. A great majority of people feel that they are judged by the hotels at which they stop.

When The Riggins was built we felt that the people of Waco were behind it, and that in a town of 40,000 people that there was at least one per cent, or 400 people, who would appreciate such a hotel and would at least take their meals at this high class place, where the food is properly cooked by scientific cooks, who know how to prepare food properly for health.

Have you been a patron of this hotel? Have you spent anything with it? Have you shown that you are loyal to what Waco said she wanted? Have you shown that you mean it? If not, come to the hotel and take the stranger by the hand and show that you appreciate the hotel.

Very respectfully,
THE RIGGINS.

DR. BUTTE TELLS LAWYERS OF RENVOL

NEW DOCTRINE OF INTERNATIONAL LAW EXPLAINED BY UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR.

Royall A. Watkins of Dallas Also Makes Brief Talk to Luncheon Club.

"Renvol," "Rueckverweisung" and "Weiterverweisung" were three new legal terms introduced to the Lawyers' Luncheon club yesterday by Dr. G. C. F. Butte, professor of international law in the University of Texas. There are no English equivalents of the terms, the first two being synonymous, but Dr. Butte said indications were that the doctrine of Renvol, as it was commonly known in Europe, would probably find its way into American law unless measures were taken to keep it out.

It had been announced that Dr. Butte would speak on the legal aspects of the present European situation, as he left Germany after war had been declared, but he said he desired to remain "strictly neutral," hence had taken the liberty of changing the subject. He complimented the Waco bar on the formation of the Luncheon club and said such organizations could not but do good in bringing the attorneys together to hear a discussion of some topic pertaining to the profession. The doctrine of Renvol is based, he said, on the theory that in private international law, the whole law with its special interpretations must be applied where the rule of international law was that the rule of law in a foreign jurisdiction should govern. The principle was first laid down in France in 1882, he said, and was just now beginning to creep into the United States. The disastrous effect, he pointed out, was that in many instances, the law of one country would be that matters affecting foreigners should be referred back to the country of the nationality. He gave several instances to show that, many times, a question would be shifted back and forth, with no country being willing to take jurisdiction. "Weiterverweisung" is where the question is referred to still a third country.

Boy Scout Benefit at Queen Theatre Monday and Tuesday

Boy Scouts are active, selling tickets to the Queen theatre for Monday and Tuesday, for they get a share of the proceeds and are trying to raise money to purchase a bass horn for their band. The picture will be the Famous Player production of "The Moth and the Flame," which is said to be particularly interesting. The Boy Scout band will play at the Queen Monday and Tuesday nights.

The band is getting along fine, but a bass horn is needed. None of the boys could afford to buy the instrument, so Manager Coke Horne helped them out by giving them a chance to make some money. They are selling their tickets fast, according to reports made to C. H. Anderson, chairman of the music committee for the Boy Scouts council.

THE RIGGINS, THE HAND OF WELCOME OF WACO

Is Your Hand Clean? Is Your Conscience Clear? Is Your Voice Musical?

Then: Call that hand The Riggins and extend it to the Bankers. If your conscience is clear and you have been a loyal citizen to Waco, welcome the Bankers. If your voice is musical, you can sing impressively "The Riggins."

The Riggins has been, ever since its opening, the greatest boost, the biggest advertisement and the greatest asset that Waco ever had, and deserves the toast:

"Far famed and first named
Wherever the fine hotels
Of the South are mentioned,
By a Guest"

This toast has been proven by the fact that every state in the Union except two has been placed upon our hotel register by some citizen of that place. There is not a state in the Union that we have not received letters from, directed to The Riggins. There is not a civilized nation that we have not either received letters from or some citizen of that place has not registered at The Riggins.

The people who have stopped at The Riggins, who have been around in the world, have been loud in their praises and boosts about The Riggins, and say that they did not expect to find a hotel like The Riggins in Waco.

Every man or woman who directs a stranger to The Riggins has the high opinion of the party that he directed. A boost for The Riggins is a boost for you. A boost for The Riggins is a boost for Waco.

The Riggins has been made the official headquarters for the Banker's Convention. The reservations for rooms began the 21st of last July and has continued ever since.

AN INVITATION: The Riggins is prepared to sleep over 500 people and to feed 1000 people out of its magnificent kitchen, the best in the South. We are going to make an extra effort to make the Bankers, having stopped at The Riggins, sing the praises of Waco, because of The Riggins—watch us do it. We want you to come to The Riggins; you are always welcome. Show the bankers and visitors that you feel at home at The Riggins and they will think more of you. Show that you're proud of the Riggins and the stranger will think better of you. You are judged by the things of which you speak, and it will put you in the highest class to talk about The Riggins.

NEVER FORGET—A boost for The Riggins is a boost for you. A boost for The Riggins is a boost for Waco. Spread the news.
THE RIGGINS.

GUARANTEE CAMPAIGN PRACTICALLY ENDED

TEAMS HAVE SECURED LARGE PORTION OF $15,000 IN NOTES DESIRED.

Reports Will Be Made to Joint Cotton Palace—Y. M. B. L. Meeting Wednesday Night.

Report of the progress of the campaign to obtain guarantees of the operating expenses of the 1915 Cotton Palace will be made at a joint meeting of the directors of the Young Men's Business League and the Cotton Palace board, to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday night. Captains of the Y. M. B. L. teams that have been working the city in the guarantee campaign will be present and make reports. Although returns of the campaign have not been tabulated, it is known that the $15,000 required has been practically obtained. Teams will continue work, and by Wednesday night will have completed the amount. The guarantees then will be properly tabulated and turned over to the Cotton Palace association.

Work of several of the departments of the exposition has been held up to await the outcome of the guarantee campaign, the directors feeling that they would not be justified in incurring the heavy expense of contemplative improvements and extensions of the exposition and grounds unless they were guaranteed against a loss on operating expenses for the 1915 season.

Committees whose work is not affected by the guarantee plan have been busy and interesting reports of progress are promised for the meeting of the Cotton Palace board Wednesday night.

Appropriations for departments will probably be completed at the meeting Wednesday night. Several of the departments were provided for at the last meeting of the board, the directors showing a disposition to cut appropriations in each case under those of last year. Appropriations for departments in which added expense falls by reason of the contemplated improvements this year were withheld by the board until the outcome of the guarantee campaign was known. The directors plan a marked extension of the agricultural department of the exposition this year, believing the interests of the show demand that the farmers of this section shall receive more attention. More and larger prizes will be offered for agricultural exhibits and educational features in this department are planned. The directors also expect to utilize the new ground loaned by the city to provide a race track and grand stand, which will serve for races if desired, and several big football games that have been booked for 1915.

General Patterson Compliments News

"Your Elks' edition of The Morning News was the best thing of the kind I have ever seen," said General W. H. Patterson of Dallas, as he was leaving for his home after the recent convention. "The makeup of the paper was unusually attractive and that big elk head on the first page was one of the most unique compliments to the order that could have been paid."

Giving Himself Up, Indicted Man Comes From Fort Worth

J. O. Raines, Charged With Forgery, Keeps His Word to Sheriff Fleming.

"Where's Sheriff Fleming? I'm J. O. Raines," said a man, walking into the sheriff's office yesterday noon. Mr. Raines was taken over and placed in the county jail, as he expected.

Raines was indicted by the last grand jury for forgery. He gave himself up at Fort Worth Friday and said he was ready to come back and face trial. The Fort Worth officials telephoned Sheriff Fleming, telling him that Raines said he would come to Waco by him if transportation was sent him.

"Send him along," replied Fleming. "If he gave himself up, I guess he'll come all right."

So the Fort Worth officers advanced Raines the transportation, he boarded a train and within a few minutes after the train reached Waco was at the sheriff's office.

Musical Programs at Austin Avenue Methodist Church

Special music by the choir will be heard at the two services at the Austin Avenue Methodist church today. Dr. F. P. Culver, the pastor, will preach both morning and evening. For the morning's music, the organ prelude will be selected, played by Mr. Hoffmann. As an anthem, "Inflammatus," from "Stabat Mater" will be rendered by Mrs. Charles Atkins and chorus. Moore F. Carter, basso, will be heard in solo. At the evening service Carl Austermeuble and chorus will sing the anthem, "Break Forth," by Simper. Miss Pauline Crawley and Byron H. Kyger will sing in duet Dudley Buck's "The Lord Is My Light."

The third of the series of musicals being given by the choir will be an organ recital played by Rudolf Hoffmann, dean of music at Baylor university, on the church organ next Thursday night at 8:15. Mr. Hoffmann will be assisted by Miss Stella Wolters, violin, and Mrs. Charles Atkins, soprano. No admission will be charged.

Columbus St. Baptist Men Will Be Given Luncheon by Ladies

The men of the Columbus Street Baptist church are to have a meeting Friday night of next week in the parlors of the church. The Ladies' Missionary societies of the church are giving them a luncheon and every man and boy in the church is expected to be present.

CITY NEWS BRIEFS.

The new directories of the Southwestern Telephone company are out and are now being distributed.

Many picnic parties took advantage of the pleasant weather yesterday and spent the day in the country.

The Western Electric company brought suit for debt against M. H. Lane in the Seventy-fourth district court yesterday.

Elections to choose school trustees in those districts over the county where ties resulted in the regular election will be held next Saturday.

The juries in the Richardson and Davis cases were still out at a late hour last night. Richardson is being tried for disposing of mortgaged property in the Forty-fourth district court. Davis is seeking damages in the Nineteenth district court from the Southern Traction company for alleged personal injuries.

Justice J. J. Padgett yesterday morning bound A. D. Smith over to the grand jury on a charge of murder, fixing the bond at $2,500, which Smith made. Smith shot Will Campbell near Elm Mott several weeks ago and after hovering between life and death for some time, Campbell died. A quarrel over the moving of a smokehouse led to the shooting.

Following the first formal meeting of the new officers and directors of the Rotary club during the past week, President H. C. Nettles will announce the policies to be pursued during his administration at the regular meeting of the club at the State House tomorrow at noon. Bob McClain will preside as toastmaster. F. L. Booth will be the principal speaker and C. S. Appell is chairman of the committee to provide special entertainment.

M. L. Kesler, of Thomasville, N. C., is visiting his brother, Dr. J. L. Kesler, dean of Baylor university, 1708 South Tenth street. Mr. Kesler, who is superintendent of the Baptist Orphan's Home at Thomasville, and a leader in church work in that state, has been in Houston attending the Southern Baptist convention and the Southern Sociological Congress. He returned with Dr. Kesler Friday morning and will remain in the city several days. Mr. Kesler also inspected the Buckner Orphan's Home at Dallas while in the state.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. F. S. Marrs leaves Monday afternoon via the Katy for Kansas City, Mo., and other points for the summer.

Sam M. Powell, Mrs. Powell and child of Dallas are registered at the Hotel Waco. Mr. Powell will locate in Waco, engaging in investment and fire insurance business.

Friends of Mrs. E. A. White will be glad to learn that her health is much improved by a stay of several weeks in Albuquerque, N. M. Mrs. White will remain for several months longer.

Negro Charged With Murder.
Robert Long, negro, charged with criminal assault on a 12-year-old negro girl, and murder, was brought into Waco yesterday from above Gholson by Deputy Sheriff Lee Jenkins and Harry White. Complaints had been filed against him in Justice J. J. Padgett's court and he was placed in jail, awaiting examining trial.

The negro girl, Willie May Walker, was an orphan, who had been at Long's house for about four years. It is said that he took her off to another part of the county, where she died last Thursday. An investigation indicated that mistreatment by Long had been the cause of her death, and his arrest followed.

Scholarship at Yale Will Be Awarded by Texas Alumni

Plans for awarding the scholarship authorized by the recent meeting of the Texas Yale Association in Dallas was announced following a meeting of the executive committee of the association, held in the office of W. W. Naman here yesterday afternoon. Present at the meeting were Royall R. Watkins of Dallas, president of the association; T. P. Davis of Austin and W. W. Naman, who compose the executive committee.

Following the meeting the committee gave out the following statement: "There is now a chance for some worthy Texas boy who wants to go to Yale college, but is unable to do so on account of insufficient funds, to gratify his wishes in that respect."

"The Texas Yale Association at its recent meeting held in Dallas, decided to establish a permanent scholarship for the Texas boys who haven't sufficient means to enable them to go to college."

"Enough money has already been advanced so the winner of this Texas scholarship can begin his work at Yale next fall."

"The entrance examinations will be conducted in Dallas beginning June 22 and continuing for three days; they will be under the supervision of Prof. Menter B. Terrell, who conducts these examinations annually."

"Royall R. Watkins, president of the Texas Yale Association has appointed a committee of three Yale graduates to award this scholarship. Dr. O. H. Cooper of the class of '72 is chairman of the committee; he is now connected with Simmons college at Abilene, Texas. Prof. James P. Richardson of the class of '91, is also a member of the committee. Prof. Richardson is the head master of the Prosser Preparatory school at Houston; and the other member of the committee is

Prof. James W. Cantwell of the class of '94, who is the superintendent of the Fort Worth public schools which position he has held for several years. "These three men will pass upon the qualifications of all the candidates and will determine what rules to be established governing the selection of the successful candidate."

"Every boy in Texas who is interested in this scholarship and wants to enter the contest, should write to Royall R. Watkins, president of the Texas Yale Association, Dallas, Texas, who will be glad to give him all the information he desires."

H. R. M. DAIRY USES FAMOUS MONOGRAM

MILK DELIVERED TO DEALER WITHOUT EVER HAVING BEEN TOUCHED BY HANDS.

SPECIALTY OF SANITATION

Visitors Invited to Inspect Place, Located on Speegleville Road, Three Miles Out.

Over in England, when any article is of such superior class that it meets the approval of the reigning sovereign, permission is given to place the coveted letters, "H. R. M." with the royal crest, upon it. Thus, in Great Britain, the monogram means that "His Royal Majesty," or "Her Royal Majesty," as the case may be, has found the article to possess great merit.

Now as it happens J. G. Hobbs, Jas. H. Riley and E. W. Marshall own a dairy just three miles west of the Waco City Square on the Speegleville road. Since their initials formed the "H. R. M." which means so much across the waters, they decided to use the monogram and crest and to give to the citizens of Waco a product worthy of being branded first class by the great American citizenship, where every man is a king and every woman a queen.

It is just a pleasant drive out to the dairy, which, as stated before, is on the new Speegleville road, completed for some distance past the dairy. Adjoining Dean's addition, the dairy property covers 308 acres, including pastures, a large wooded lot, milk house, office, quarters for the men and fields for growing sorghum, to be turned into silage later.

Grazing over the verdant pastures is a herd of 180 beautiful cows, all Jerseys, excepting three or four. These cows were among those first secured and are kept mainly from sentimentality at reasons, although they are good milkers. The cows are in the pink of condition; the instant an animal shows any signs of sickness of any character she is placed in the "cow hospital" for treatment. Only one bovine lady was in the hospital yesterday.

Long Milking Shed.

The milking shed is 325 feet long, built in a "U" shape, so as to get the advantage of all breezes. The floors are of cement with a perfect system of drainage and the building is kept in such a sanitary condition that absolutely no odor is discernable. Screens keep all flies out of the milking sheds, which are all painted a spotless white. Acetylene lights are installed, so that the cows can be milked at night, as well as in the day time. In the shed are long feeding troughs. When the cow starts to eating, a stanchion is clamped along side of her neck, so that she cannot get away before the milker is through. So far as the sanitary idea is concerned, that sanitary iron milking stools have been installed.

No human hand ever touches the milk from the time it leaves the cow until it is delivered to the customer. The milk is first milked through strainers into the bucket, then strained out of the bucket into the large cans, which are placed in a screened enclosure, although the building itself is screened. These ten gallon cans are then carried into the cooling plant where the animal heat is taken out of the milk.

The cows browse on Johnson grass in the summer and oats in the winter. Three large silos, with a capacity of 250 tons each, are being erected so that the cows can have plenty of green feed during the winter months. There is a big wooded space so that the cattle can rest in the shade when the sun gets too hot. Scattered over the entire place are a large number of drinking troughs, supplied with pure artesian water through a system of automatic float valves. The water is supplied by direct pressure, but a gasoline engine is kept ready, or use whenever desired and a big tank is always full of the pure water.

Everything in White.

The milking and cooling buildings are a study in white and even the milkmen, all six of them, are dressed in white. Floods of ventilation have been provided so that the temperature is comfortable at all times and the buildings are kept constantly clean, the water being carried off by an excellent sewerage system.

Bottles used are first sterilized, then rinsed in clear water and then steam-cleaned, thus making them absolutely clean. Incidentally, half a car of glass bottles, with the "H. R. M." and the crest on the bottom, have been ordered from the factory and are expected as soon as the order can be filled.

The cows are milked twice a day, at 1 o'clock a. m. and 1 o'clock p. m. By 3:30 the milk has left the dairy

Swish! Corns Gone! We Use "GETS-IT!"

2 Seconds, 2 Drops — Corns Vanish!

For everybody with corns, there is in every drug store in the land one of the real wonders of the world, and that's "GETS-IT!" for corns! It's the first and only corn-ore ever known that removes any and every corn or callus without fail, without fussing with thick bandages, toe harnesses, corn-swelling salves, irritating ointments. It's applied in 2 seconds—bing, bing—2 drops, the work is done, the corn shrivels up, your corn agony ends and the corn leaves forever! All the limping, the pain that dart to your heart's core, the crucifixion of having to wear shoes over screaming corns, the danger of blood poison from making them bleed by using knives, razors and scissors—are gone at last! "GETS-IT!" is the new way, the sure, simple, painless way. Try it for corns, calluses, warts and bunions.

"GETS-IT!" is sold by druggists everywhere, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Stratton Stock Is Being Sold Now at Mistrot Building

The Stratton furniture stock has been moved to the Mistrot building on the southwest corner of Fifth and Washington streets, where the sale will continue until the stock has been disposed of. This step was made necessary when it was found that there was not room in the big Dennis building after several weeks of the record-breaking selling. Carpenters are now at work remodeling the building formerly occupied by the Stratton furniture stock, and as there was not room in the Dennis building, Mr. Dennis was forced to move the stock somewhere else. It will all be sold at low prices to escape rental charges.

Mr. Dennis announces that there is still furniture remaining of the Stratton stock to the value of $20,000. According to the announcement, prices have been boiled down to the point where every one can participate in the quick-action sale that must result from such low prices.

Only two bales of cotton were received in Waco last week by Sam Nix, public weigher. It is believed that the 1914-15 crop has about all come in now, still leaving a considerable deficit over last year.

Six White Boys Arrested Charged With Taking Autos

Six white boys are in the city jail, charged with taking and using motor vehicles without the consent of the owners, the arrests being made by Chief McNamara and Policeman Alva Tilley yesterday morning. The officers are after others who are claimed to belong to the gang that has been making trouble for automobile owners for some time past. The ages of the boys arrested range from 12 to 16 years. One of the boys has a broken arm which he received trying to crank a stolen automobile.

Women in Ye Olden Times Did Not Paint

The painter man was the only one who knew how to blend colors and mix paint, which he did in the old fashioned way by hand. Things are different now. Machinery can take the same lead, zinc and linseed oil and mix it so much better that it is no wonder the practical painter says, "I can't make paint that is as good as Minnesota Paint." That painter is honest, and you will profit by using it on your house.

Let Wm. Cameron & Co. tell you about why it costs less for the job, but more for a gallon than cheap paint. Phone them for an interview.

OPERATING REVENUES OF ROADS FALL OFF

CLAIM MADE THAT RAILWAYS OF STATE ARE NOT IN BETTER CONDITION.

DEFICIT STILL IN MILLIONS

Comparisons Between 1914 and 1915 Figures Show Many Startling Facts.

Austin, May 15.—On March 31 last 28 of the leading railroads of Texas, representing over 90 per cent of the total mileage and doing over 90 per cent of the total business, were in a better condition than they were on March 31, 1914, according to a summary by General H. G. Askew, statistician, just completed. This statement, however, is more fancied than real. On March 31, 1914, the 28 roads had a deficit of $3,296,672.17, while on March 31 last the deficit was only $1,965,008.08—but a deficit just the same. These two years as compared with the nine months period ending March 31, 1913, make a still more startling showing, for on March 31, 1913, the 28 roads after paying all expenses and fixed charges, had a balance of $2,399,468.77. In other words, in two years the 28 lines have fallen from having a surplus to having a deficit, the total difference between the gain in the one period and the loss in the other being $4,764,476.85.

The statement further shows that for the first nine months of the present fiscal year—ending March 31 last—the total operating revenue of the 28 lines was $3,368,165.51, which was $1,909,316.88 less than the books showed for the nine months ending March 31, 1914, and $6,599,025.68 less than for the nine months ending March 31, 1913.

The total operating expenses of the 28 lines for the nine months period ending March 31 last was $66,933,618.77. Compared with the same period ending March 31, 1914, this is a decrease of $2,558,699.99, and compared with the same period ending March 31, 1913, this is a decrease of $2,459,994.78.

The operating expenses deducted from the total operating revenue gives the net operating revenue, which for the nine months ending March 31 last was $19,454,546.74, an increase of $1,179,251.81, as compared with the same period ending March 31, 1914, and a decrease of $4,139,030.90 as compared with the same period ending March 31, 1913. Other income added to the next operating income gives the gross corporate income of the lines, which for the nine months period ending March 31 last was $22,774,174.29, an increase of $2,886,978.15, as compared with the same period of the preceding year and a decrease of $2,339,632.97, as compared with the same period ending March 31, 1913.

From this gross corporate income must be paid taxes, hire of equipment, joint facilities, rentals, interest and such other legal and frequently required by legislative enactment expenses. These deductions for the 28 lines aggregated $24,729,182.28 for the nine months period ending March 31 last. For the same period ending March 31, 1914, these deductions totaled $1,555,313.06 less than they did for the first nine months of this fiscal year and for the nine months of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1913, these deductions totaled $2,424,794.78 less than they did for the nine months period ending March 31 last.

This summary by General Askew shows that during the first nine months of the present fiscal year there was a less loss to the 28 railroads of $1,331,665.09 than was the case as compared with 1914, while as compared with the period of two years back the loss during the first nine months of this fiscal year was $4,765,476.85 greater.

The figures included in the statement compiled by General Askew take no note of such money as has been spent for betterments and improvements. It should also be borne in mind that by virtue of several of the lines included in the report being in the hands of receivers, some interest charges that would have been paid had the roads not been under the jurisdiction of the courts.

Scientific Feat is to be Installed at State University

University Station, May 15.—The installation of the charter members of the Texas Chapter of Sigma Xi, the scientific fraternity chiefly for men engaged in creditable research, will take place at the University of Texas on May 17th. Dr. Samuel W. Williston, professor of Paleontology of the University of Chicago, will be here to conduct the installation. A banquet will be given in connection with the installation at which Dr. W. J. Battle and Prof. Williston will be the principal speakers.

While here Dr. Williston will deliver a lecture in the university Y. M. C. A. auditorium on "The Contribution of Texas to Our Knowledge of Early Land Life." The lecture will be illustrated with lantern slides, and will be in language easily understood by the layman. It will be a popular, not a technical lecture.

"I can hardly conceive of any topic which I could choose that would interest your people more," writes Dr. Williston, "than the one dealing with the remarkable discoveries of the Permian life in north Texas."

It seems that Texas is a field particularly rich in material for the paleontologist. It so happens that many transition-forms of life, that is, transition-forms between aquatic and land animals, occur in fossils here in Texas, which are not to be found anywhere else in the world.

Prof. Williston is considered by those competent to judge one of the leading authorities on the subject.

Maxwell Wins Test Over 40 Cars

Result of the great Yale University Sheffield Scientific School Test. Of the forty automobiles tested at the famous Sheffield Scientific School laboratory the Maxwell stands first in economy of Gasoline consumption.

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT
SHEFFIELD SCIENTIFIC SCHOOL
YALE UNIVERSITY

NEW HAVEN, CONNECTICUT
May 1st 1915.

The Biever Motor Car Company,
1079 Chapel Street
New Haven, Conn.

Gentlemen:—

I am enclosing report of test of your Maxwell automobile recently made in our laboratory.

I should like to add the following comments:

1. RELIABILITY OF TEST.

A preliminary test was made on April 19th, using a new car which was rather stiff. The showing was so good that we decided to make a second test. This was made on April 30th, using same car. On this test, the car showed less stiffness and the performance was better than on the first car. The second test was supervised by our most careful experts, and the results, I believe to be perfectly reliable.

2. MILEAGE.

The efficiency of the Maxwell automobile as indicated by the number of miles on a level road, is exceptionally high. This mileage record is better than that of any one of forty automobiles tested in our laboratory to date.

3. MOTOR PERFORMANCE.

The efficiency of the motor and carburetor as indicated by the pounds of gasoline used per hour per horse-power at rear tires, is exceedingly good, and indicates very perfect carburetor action over the whole range of speed and load. This record like that on mileage per gallon, is the best one that we have had.

Very truly yours,

E. H. Lockwood

ASSISTANT PROFESSOR MECHANICAL ENGINEERING.

WISE SUGGESTIONS FOR DAILY SERVING

OUT OF HER EXPERIENCE SHE GIVES SOME PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS.

LARGE TABLE FOR CUTTING

Use of Batting-Threads Saves Time.
Little Things That Some Sewers
May Forget.

(Washington Star.)

Do you begin feeling that you will go mad before the garment is completed? Do you carry your sewing from room to room, losing this, that and the other thing, and never knowing where needles and thread are? Do you wait till the sewing day before cleaning the sewing machine? If you do any one or all of these things you are wrong. The fates of the thread and needle must be decided and the job begun with a hopeful frame of mind. You have sewed successfully before this; why should you fail now?

So first buckle on your armor of faith in yourself. Then, if you have not done so already, the week before the important business begins try to turn a good part of a light, airy room into the sewing establishment. If a whole room can be given to it, and kept for the purpose, all the better. Have the room cleaned before you begin any part of the important feat, for cleanliness is a great rest to the spirit. Have a little crockery bowl or pretty pitcher somewhere with a bright flower that you can look at when your heart gets tired.

Sewing Machine Near Window.

Put the sewing machine near a window and arrange it and the chair so that the light will fall over your left shoulder. Clean it the day before the work is to begin, and if it seems very dusty, oil it thoroughly with kerosene oil, and after cleaning it well with this put on a fresh but light supply of machine oil. On the sewing day see to it that no particle of grease is left about the needle or foot to soil the dainty material that is to be made up by sewing a scrap over and over until the thread shows no oil.

For all the big cutting out try to have a large table, for this is more convenient than the lap board, and have somewhere in the room a small table conveniently near the sewing machine and have a smaller and lower one beside it, with all the sewing straps—shears, smaller scissors, a paper of needles, one of pink books, eyes, buttons, tapes and whatever linings or facings are to be used.

Dress Goods and Muslins.

But put the dress material on the big table on which it is to be cut out, and have somewhere in the room a bit of muslin or dress lining which may be cut up to try effects with collars, cuffs, trimmings, etc. Then fasten the shears with a tape measure in the pocket of your sewing apron and pin a small pin cushion to the left side of your dress, stabbing it first with several needles and pins.

With this set-up, which is, of course, for the actual sewing day, little more than ordinary good sense is essential. In using all flat paper models it is necessary to read the directions on them and not go contrary to their rules. They should also be bought by exact bust or waist measurements, and with any change in the alterations must not be made at the edges of the model, but midway in its length or breadth.

For the rest be kind to yourself—and to the next day. Eat a good luncheon and never put up work for the night without laying each band, gusset and seam where it surely can be found the next morning. Through all the sewing taboo the never bending the chest or stomach.

Use basting thread; it saves making mistakes that take a long time to alter.

High School Seniors to Present Play.

"Hicks at College," a comedy in three acts, will be presented by the senior class of high school at 8:30 Auditorium, Saturday, May 22, at 8:30 p. m. Mrs. Edward Mann, who is well known in dramatic circles, is coaching a selected group from the senior class, and a first-class production is guaranteed. All who in a good play are urged to purchase their tickets at once.

Tickets on sale at Powers-Kelly drug store, 50c and 25c. Reserved seats may be secured at the Auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday (Advertisement.)

Miss Stella Wolters Gives Graduation Recital.

Miss Stella Wolters, pupil of Prof. Anton Navratil, appeared in graduation recital at Carroll chapel last Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

The program consisted of numbers from both the old and modern masters, and Miss Wolters handled each composition with surprising ease. Purity of tone, true intonation and clear phrasing were some of her good points. Among her numbers of special merit were the Andante from the Mendelssohn "Concerto in E," "Legend" by Wienowski, "Fantasie Appassionata" by Viextemps, and "Romance" by Svendsen. Svendsen is a living Swedish composer of excellent style. His work is remarkably free from national characteristic and the influence of Beethoven is strongly in evidence in his compositions. This evidence was written for violin and orchestra and is extremely difficult. Miss Wolters and Mr. Navratil also played a group of violin duets.

Pupils of Miss Bessie Byrd Burleson in Recital.

Miss Bessie Byrd Burleson presented the pupils of her piano class in recital at her home, 1405 South Tenth street, on Friday, May 7, at 5 o'clock. Miss Burleson is one of the younger pianists of the European club and is a loyal and enthusiastic member.

In this program the playing of her pupils gave evidence of careful instruction, and attention to detail. Those who took part were Alene Durheim, Valladean Brooks, Merl Wilson, Gladys Dancer, Mildred and Louise Clark, Sam Lee, Daisy May Williams, Hallie Scott, Alvina Snead, Emma and Georgiell Burleson.

Miss Mattie Watson to Give Graduating Piano Recital.

The following program will be given next Tuesday afternoon, May 18, at 5 o'clock, at Carroll chapel by Miss Mattie Watson, graduate piano pupil from the class of Prof. Joseph Evans of Baylor university:

"Sonata," opus 31, No. 1, Schumann movement. "Etude," opus 47, No. 6, Loeschhorn. "If I Were a Bird," opus 22, Henselt. "Nocturne," opus 37, No. 2, Chopin. "Witches' Dance," opus 22, Macdowell. "Capriccio Brilliant," opus 22, Mendelssohn. Orchestral parts played on second piano by Mr. Evans.

Miss Corrie Ivey in Graduating Recital.

Miss Corrie Ivey, graduate piano pupil of Prof. Hoffmann, and also graduate from the liberal arts department of Baylor university, gave a most interesting recital at Carroll chapel last Tuesday afternoon. Ivey possesses a good singing tone, clear technique in both finger work and clear sense of chord passages. In the Beethoven "Sonata," Op. 14, No. 2, her reading showed intelligence and careful study. The great Chopin "Etude," opus 10, No. 3, which is "Impromptu" of the set of four, is one of the specially well rendered numbers. Also the Chopin "Rondo" by Brull; Rubinstein's "Pavane" "Barcarole," and Liszt "Canzonetta" were other numbers which were well interpreted.

Prof. Hoffmann to Give Organ Recital.

The organ recital to be given by Prof. Rudolf Hoffmann next Thursday evening, May 20, at Austin Avenue church, promises to be of unusual interest. Mr. Hoffmann is an excellent solo organist, and will be assisted by Mrs. Charles W. Atkins, soprano, and Miss Stella Wolters, violinist. There will be no charge of admission, but a free-will offering will be taken for the benefit of the choir fund. The program, which follows, will begin at 8 o'clock:

"Fantasia and Fugue," G minor, Bach. "Siciliano," for violin, Bach. "Melody," for violin, Bach. "Andante," for violin, Hoffmann. "Hear Ye, Israel," Mendelssohn. "Funeral March," G major, Chopin. "Pavane," for violin, Buxtehude. "Meditation," for violin, Gounod. "Allegretto," for violin, Mendelssohn. "Toccata," for violin, Dubois. "Hear Ye, Israel," Mendelssohn. "Funeral March," G major, Chopin.

Mr. Leonard Sisk Gives Piano Recital.

The graduating recital given last Tuesday evening at Goggin's music store by Mr. Leonard Sisk, pupil of Mrs. Gertrude Mills Hunnicutt, was attended by a large and appreciative audience. Mr. Sisk is a talented and earnest student, and gave a most creditable performance of a difficult program, which included the "Sonata Pathetique," by Beethoven, and a group of Chopin compositions. While possessing many good points, the listener was attracted to the clearness of his technique and roundness of tone. The interpretations of both the Beethoven and Chopin numbers gave evidence of natural talent, complete happiness and perfect self-satisfaction. Alexander, Napoleon, Nelson or Dewey surely never felt so triumphant after their victories as the young performer after his recital.

Commencement Season.

Roses and smilax, the white June air, clouds of white crepe de chine, dotted Swiss, net and china silk, laughing sweetyoungthings, flustered prexy, the pompous valedictorian, palpitating maiden aunts, and—Oh, don't let us forget him—the solemn old gentleman with an imposing row of initials in the way of a name, who says for the fiftieth time in his life—"My friends, this is not the completion of your education—it is only the beginning, the commencement."

Only one who has journeyed to that apex of human achievement, a commencement, knows the real meaning of complete happiness and perfect self-satisfaction. Alexander, Napoleon, Nelson or Dewey surely never felt so triumphant after their victories as the young performer after his recital.

Ground for Santa Fe Hospital.

Temple, May 15.—The tender of a block of white crepe de chine, dotted Swiss, net and china silk, laughing sweetyoungthings, flustered prexy, the pompous valedictorian, palpitating maiden aunts, and—Oh, don't let us forget him—the solemn old gentleman with an imposing row of initials in the way of a name, who says for the fiftieth time in his life—"My friends, this is not the completion of your education—it is only the beginning, the commencement."

Only one who has journeyed to that apex of human achievement, a commencement, knows the real meaning of complete happiness and perfect self-satisfaction. Alexander, Napoleon, Nelson or Dewey surely never felt so triumphant after their victories as the young performer after his recital.

Temple Y. M. B. L. Route.

Temple, May 15.—The Young Men's Business league at its session last night decided upon the route for its annual trades excursion to the city of June 3, selecting the Santa Fe railway to Lometa, thence to Brady and over the Frisco railway to Brownwood, returning over the Santa Fe from the latter place. A special train of six coaches will be used.

Plans and details are now being arranged. The league also instructed its delegates to the Texas Young Men's Business leagues, which will meet in convention at Fort Worth on May 17, to invite the 1915 meeting to Temple, and a strong and vigorous fight will be made to capture the honor.

son who proudly goes forward to receive a diploma on commencement day.

Getting Breadth.

(James Francis Cooke in Etude.) Probably in no other country of the world is there such a widespread effort to secure breadth similar to that which so many Americans are now making through Chautauques, public school lectures, university extension societies, institutes, etc., etc. Certainly not, but all for the most part informing—now being put out in all parts of the United States. If we are denied a systematic schooling in our youth we do not spend the rest of our lives deploring the fact but we do our best to improve ourselves through the wonderful means ever at hand.

Musicians are often accused of being narrow. That is a charge which may often be brought with justice against any professional man who attempts to specialize. One of the narrowest men we have ever met was a very celebrated romance writer and mathematician. He had virtually sold his intellect for mathematical proficiency.

Travel and reading are perhaps the most popular means for "getting breadth." If one cannot come in direct personal communication with the great men and women who are shaping the progress of our civilization one can at least see as much of the world in which they live as it is possible to see, and also keep in touch with the leaders of thought through magazines in which they are represented. Particularly valuable for the music student who wants to keep in rhythm with the big pulse of the times are such splendid reviews as "The Outlook," "The Literary Digest," "The Review of Reviews," "Collier's Weekly," "The Atlantic Weekly," "The Metropolitan Magazine," "Travel," "Harper's Weekly" and a host of excellent publications crowding every news stand. In fact, all of the better class general magazines are likely to contain splendid formative material. Even the highest priced of these really comprises a vast fund of matter from renowned authors and celebrated specialists as many a book costing several times as much.

Beautifully printed, abundantly illustrated, finely edited and surprisingly cheap in cost, opportunities for "getting breadth," which always pay the subscriber more than he puts out for them.

Summer Progress or Summer Stagnation?

What do you suppose would happen if every business enterprise hung up a notice:

Business Suspended from

June 15th

September 15th

Imagine a great metropolis with blinds closed for a quarter of a year—locomotives rusting in the round houses, factories with cob-webs draped over their chimneys, the streets silent for months, building operations at a standstill, libraries and banks with barred doors, grimy ruins of Thebes or Memphis could hardly be more desolate than such a picture.

Suspension of activity is another name for death. Yet many musicians and musicians deliberately choose to suspend their work during the summer months of the year. This is due in a large measure to the old custom of stopping education for several months in the olden days schools were closed in summer for many reasons. The foremost was that insufficient money was appropriated to keep them open. Another was that in country districts the grown boys were needed in the fields. Arising from this came still another condition. The school terms were so short that a boy in the country found himself well on to manhood before his education really was fairly begun.

But the older order changed. Our universities are now conducting successful summer schools. Conservatories have kept up the tradition and progress to thousands of youngsters who formerly spent their summers in idleness. The suspension of activity is death. If you want a summer of real delight you can not get it by loafing. The teacher who will still the sharp, uninterrupted progress is most desirable. The teacher who hopes to make next year a better one than this year's must have an opportunity to make plans, get acquainted with new teaching works and plan to keep up the interest of pupils, who formerly deliberately planned to seek enjoyment in stagnation. Wishful fortune is the teacher who can put out the sign:

MARRIAGES TO CURE WAR IS SUGGESTED

MADAME OLGA KLUGE TALKS INTERESTINGLY ON INTERNATIONAL ALLIANCES.

Her Husband a German—Opens Russian Bazaar in Court Costume.

(Zoe Beckley, in N. Y. Evening Mail.) Why not international marriage to cure war? It would seem that a gradual obliteration of boundaries and barriers might ensue, allowing the entrance of the love and understanding which would make conflict impossible. With this beautiful idea in mind, I confidently approached Mme. Olga Kluge, president of the Russian-American War Relief society, which is holding a bazaar at the Seventy-first regimental canteen. For Mme. Kluge is Russian born and Russian bred.

They have lived in America six years, have two little daughters and one small son. And everything is as a May party, so why shouldn't I expect my international marriage theory to be staunchly upheld? Madame shook her head, however, in astonishment but very positive negation. It is a very lovely head, as blonde as a fairy princess. It was dressed in a billowing white tulle veil fastened to a pear-and-crystal diadem called a "kokoshnik." This veil fell over a white brocaded silk frock heavily with jeweled ornaments and gorgeous with cloth-of-silver sleeves.

In Russian Court Costume. It is the Russian court costume and was worn by Mme. Kluge in honor of the opening of the big bazaar under the patronage of Mme. Bakmeteff, wife of the Russian ambassador.

"I think your theory is very beautiful," smiled Mme. Kluge, "but quite incorrect. International marriages are extremely dangerous. And a few of them turn out well. They are apt to precipitate war rather than to avert it. Moreover, they are bad for the children."

I was too surprised to do more than gasp a faint "Why?" "Because," she said, "people are human, not idealistic," and the lovely lady with the golden brown lashes veiling the bluest of eyes. "You have only to look at the European monarchs to see how international marriages fail to preserve conditions of peace."

Czar's Wife a German. "The czar's wife is a German princess. The ruler of Italy married a Montenegrin princess. Holland's queen has a German husband. England and Germany are closely related by marriage. But through the ages these intermarriages have done nothing to lessen war."

"We see many international marriages in Russia. The Russian women are as a rule peculiarly attractive and companionable by reason of their broad education. "But few such unions endure happily. Each clings to his or her ideal of life, religion, occupation and training. Marriage at best is a state of constant and mutual adjustment. It adds infinitely to its problems and to the perplexities of the children when there are two sets of ideals to choose between in the family life."

Children "Have No Country." "The children of such marriages have no country. To me, that is a great injustice."

"Fortunately for us, my husband is a cosmopolitan. A man of broad and liberal ideals. He agrees that our children shall be bred as Russians. But even so, I cannot vouch for their future. I often wonder how they will be affected by these different views."

ALVARADO MAN RESTORED BY WONDERFUL REMEDY

Gets Appetite and Comfort Back After Taking First Dose.

T. A. Hensley of Alvarado, Tex., suffered for a long time from depression of the digestive tract. He had colic attacks and indigestion. His liver was inactive and he was in pain after eating.

He took Mayr's Wonderful Remedy. From the very first dose it brought swift results. He wrote: "I have taken your treatment for stomach trouble and consider it a Godsend to suffering humanity. I have been suffering from stomach troubles for a long time, such as colic attacks, bloating after eating, sick spells, indigestion, constipation and inactive liver and gall stones. Now I do not feel like the same man. I can cheerfully commend this remedy to all stomach sufferers."

Mayr's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee. If not satisfactory money will be returned.

RAILROADS ACCEDING TO Y. M. B. L. DEMANDS

GENERAL PASSENGER AGENT WRITES PRESIDENT HUTCHISON RATE WOULD BE GRANTED.

OTHERS EXPECTED TO FOLLOW

Indications Now Are That League Will Be Able to Make Trade Trips as Contemplated.

At least one Texas railroad has receded from the position of the general passenger agents' association with regard to advancing rates for one-day trade trips. President J. J. Hutchison of the Young Men's Business League yesterday received a letter from the general passenger agent of a railroad running into Waco, stating that his road would allow the same rates that had heretofore prevailed, $1 a train mile a 100 persons. This action is believed to foreshadow a reduction to the former rate by all the railroads, as the action of one is generally met by the others.

The advance in rates for one-day trips to $1.50 a train mile a 100 persons caused the postponement of the first Y. M. B. L. trade trip of the season, which was to have been run over the Cotton Belt to Tyler May 6. At that time it was considered doubtful whether an arrangement could be effected whereby any of the trade trips scheduled for this season could be run. A resolution protesting against the raise in rates was adopted by the directors of the league, and a copy sent to each general passenger agent of the state. The Y. M. B. L. requested to be allowed to appear before the meeting of the general passenger agents' association, held last week in San Antonio. The passenger agents replied with the offer to hold a meeting of agents in Waco to consider the protest of the Y. M. B. L.

A copy of the letter received by President Hutchison yesterday had been mailed to each general passenger agent, according to the writer. Mr. Hutchison has not yet heard from the other agents, but if many of the replies agree to restore the former rate, it is probable that the conference of agents here, which was to have been held next Wednesday, will be made unnecessary.

Nearly all the directors of the Y. M. B. L. will leave the city tomorrow morning to attend the meeting of the state Y. M. B. L. in Fort Worth, but will return in time for the directors' meeting Tuesday night. Interesting reports of the delegates from Fort Worth will be a part of the business.

"Y" Boys Planning for Summer Camp

The daily paper the boys of the Young Men's Christian association are to have will be a unique part of the program. The paper last year at the camp which was gotten up by the different boys of the camp was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended. In the advertising columns in one of the issues last year was found the following advertisement:

"Wanted—A strong man to fight off mosquitoes. Let—A weak supporter; finder return to the office of the Daily Paper and get reward."

The campers will be furnished with artesian water from a nearby well, and arrangements have been made for the camp to furnish the farmers to furnish the camp with fresh vegetables, milk, butter and eggs.

Out in the woods near the camp ground will be arranged a place for the camp fire each night which will be one of the attractive parts of the daily program. Around this camp fire each night the boys will gather with their yells, and stories, singing and different stunts from time to time, and at the close a serious thought, then to their different tents for a night's rest; and the nights will be rest, for after the bugle sounds for all to be quiet all noise stops and every one goes to his cot for rest and sleep.

Standing at the right of the group above is Ben C. Richards, city fire and police commissioner. Chief of Police Guy McNamara stands at the left. Immediately behind Commissioner Richards is J. A. Carlisle, city fire marshal. Reading from right to left, the policemen in the group above are: Front row—P. E. Davis, Nimrod Sheppard, Michael Tonahill, Joe Moore, Rowe Owens, M. C. Moore, J. R. Spillers; middle row—G. M. Mallard, J. R. Landrum, H. S. Head, Frank Tenison, H. Jones, Assistant Chief Charles P. James; back row—D. D. Barrett, Tom Abbott, Jess Farquhar, J. A. Garrison, R. H. Hall, Bayless Clay.

A squad of twenty-one of Waco's "Finest" led the big parade of the Army and Navy of 1914 last Tuesday morning. This was Waco's first chance to see the parade squad of the Waco police force in their new white, full dress uniforms, made of cotton grown in McLennan county mill, and tailored in Waco. The white uniforms for parades was one of the suggestions made by Mayor Higgins on the occasion of the inauguration of the new commissioners last month. The suits are patterned after the famous cotton suit which Mayor Higgins made known personally all over the state, and through photographs in newspapers and magazines, to the entire country. The white-clad squad of stalwarts made a fine appearance at the head of the long line of marchers in the parade last Tuesday morning, a spectacle that will be repeated on other occasions. A patrolman's salary is not large enough to provide comfortably for a family, and the city commission last Friday afternoon voted to refund to the officers the amount spent for their white uniforms. The cotton from which the cloth for the suits was made was grown on McLennan county farms, and woven in the West Cotton Mill. The suits were tailored to measure by J. C. Fields, 123 North Sixth street. The coats may look long, but are the regulation "big city" length.

The picture printed herewith shows the white squad lined up on the steps of the city hall before starting out with the parade last Tuesday morning.

Many Autos Wanted to Take Visiting Bankers on Ride

In order that every one of the 1,500 bankers and their ladies who will be here this week to attend the annual convention of the State Bankers' Association may have an opportunity to see the beauty spots of Waco and enjoy a ride over the many miles of paved streets in the city, it is the desire of the local entertainment committee that every automobile owner who can possibly do so be present at the Higgins hotel next Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock with his automobile.

The bankers will be given a drive throughout the city, terminating at Cameron park, where refreshments will be served. The reputation of the city is at stake in the entertainment of the bankers. They have been given the choice of everything other cities which the local committee is hopeful that Waco will do even better than any city that has previously entertained the financiers.

Due to the fact that the local banks over the state will defray the expenses of their representatives to the convention, there will be no disposition to stay at home on account of financial reasons and it is presumed a

Public Health Nurse Will Be Retained for Several Months

Miss Laura Edwards, visiting nurse for the city, will continue in her present position at least several months longer, according to the decision of the board of control at a meeting held yesterday afternoon in the public library. Plans for providing the salary for the nurse will be worked out by the board later.

Miss Edwards was employed under a city ordinance passed by the old commission. When the new commissioners took their seats, the ordinance was repealed and the office abolished. Miss Edwards has since been working under direction of the board of advisors created by the city ordinance, and which retained its organization after the repeal of the ordinance. Her salary has been paid by subscription. Plans for continuing the work of the nurse will be announced soon.

Some of New Books at Public Library

Among the interesting new books at the Waco Public Library are the following:

Barcus, Dr. Clara—"Our Friend, John Burroughs." The author writes of John Burroughs from a long acquaintance and she presents many an intimate picture of the naturalist. It is a book every reader of the man will want, a lovely book, full to the brim of the same, sweet, wholesome spirit, the honesty and sincerity of its subject.—New York Times.

Burroughs, John—"The Summit of the Years." A collection of essays, autobiographical, scientific and descriptive, all of which are uniformly excellent.

Fabre, Jean Henri—"Life of the Spider." In this volume Mr. Fabre has given us the results of his patient observations on the lives of spiders; he has lifted the veil that hides their domestic habits and habitations from the gaze of the ordinary investigator, not in scientific jargon, but in his own charming phraseology.—Book Reviews Digest.

Fabre, Jean Henri—"Notes on Novelists." This book is a collection of essays on Stevenson, Zola, Flaubert, Balzac, George Sand, d'Annunzio, Malraux, Sorel, Dumas, the Younger, the novel in "The Ring and the Book," Charles Eliot Norton, and the new novel, 1914.

Slosson, Edwin E.—"Major Prophets of Today." With a happy blending of biography, criticism and quotation the author introduces six of the men who in one way or another are today influencing the world's thought. He has visited each of the six and so is able to enliven the biographical paragraphs with a personal touch. The six men chosen are: Maurice Maeterlinck, Henri Bergson, Henri Poincaré, Elie Metchnikoff, Wilhelm Ostwald, Ernst Haeckel.

U. S. FIRST NATION IS REDFIELD'S GOAL

TELLS WHAT ULTIMATE EFFECT OF THE EUROPEAN WAR WILL MEAN.

With This Country, Says the Secretary of Commerce, Path is Upward.

(By William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce.)

It is perhaps, nay it is doubtless, risky to foretell what the ultimate effects of the European war shall be upon our foreign commerce.

We know where we were before the war began—a great and growing competitor of others who had many advantages over us in the world's markets. We know where we are now while the war goes on—the one great industrial and commercial country which is at peace and certain to remain so. We know there is no other land in which a foreign buyer can place an order requiring months for its execution with the reasonable certainty that the alarm of war will not delay it. We know that we are passing over from the debtor to the creditor stage; that our floating debt is paid and much of our funded debt as well, and that we are paying more interest to ourselves and less to others.

These things we know.

No one with vision to see but sees that the United States holds a unique position and one of great dignity in the world today. What shall the future be? This may not be answered broadly, but certain things we think we see that are suggestive. One of our great competitors has for eight months been out of the market. Another and a lesser competitor has also been excluded. A third great competitor has been so intensely occupied in the struggle as to be unable to sustain at highest pitch in other fields the commercial enterprises which have made her great, and fourth, having much of her industrial territory occupied by hostile troops, is in a measure crippled thereby in her foreign trade.

Competitors Out of Business.

Absence from the market is a hurtful thing. Those of our competitors who have been out of business will find it impracticable to pick up the threads just where they were broken. Those of our competitors whose continuity of operation has been broken soon just as they did before the break. The customers of these nations have not ceased consuming while the nations have been absentees. They have gone elsewhere for the goods they need and they may have found, and doubtless to some degree will find, more goods than they could have found. In such a case the work of commercial conquest must be done over if the business is to be turned back into its old channels. It will not be so easy to make the conquest anew if the organization that sustained it in the first instance has ceased to exist and must itself be recreated.

be in a position at once dangerous, expensive and humiliating. We shall hardly be content to rest long in such position now that our notice has been sharply directed to it. I hope we shall include among the humiliations of late, but we ought not to be, depending upon others for the transportation of our sea-borne trade. It is not fit that the commerce which is of our very life should be in the control of others than ourselves. We have been late, but we ought not to be, depending upon foreign navies for the privilege of transporting the goods which it was necessary for us both to buy and sell.

Fine Idealism in War.

I do not forget the ideals for which the combatants fight nor underestimate the really spiritual forces which are the impetus to the strife for these ideals. There is a side of war in its devotion to cause and country, in its willingness to spend all for what that country needs, and in its heroism, which is strong and fine. Nevertheless, we are talking of trade, and economic destruction is not made good even with the highest ideals save over long years of atonement.

It seems clear to me that if we do our part we shall change our place among the great competitors. The world is never the economic gainer in the last analysis by war. The losses must be absorbed and we must do our share of absorbing, but in the process of absorption places relative to one another may be exchanged.

Program for the Week.

Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—Weber & Fields in "Two of the Finest." Also Sunday, Ruth Roland in "Unto Herself Alone," fifth complete novel in the "Who Pays?" series. Also Monday and Tuesday, Romaine Fielding in "The Eagle's Nest," Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay feature.

Wednesday—Return of Anita Stewart and Earle Williams in "The Juggernaut." Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Francis X. Bushman and Ruth Stonehouse in "The Slim Princess," Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay feature.

"Two of the Finest."

Weber & Fields, best known of all comedy teams, make their joint appearance in moving pictures for the first time today and tomorrow in "Two of the Finest," a comedy based on one of their famous stage plays. Mike Schulze, played by Joe Weber, and Meyer Krause, played by Lew Fields, are owners of the Imperial raised, for between her and her contempt for things as they are, came the sickening realization that he was already wed. For the first time in her life she knew the cost of flouting her terrible words, "Thou Shalt Not"—and all the force of her rebellious spirit was turned against the man who had wittingly brought her face to face with Reality. Day after day she dogged his footsteps, go where he might, and ever as he turned he looked fearfully into those eyes of dreadful accusation. Her desire for payment knew no satiety until her relentless persecution had driven him to hopeless insanity; then, all too late, she knew deep within her that she loved him dearly.

"The Eagle's Nest."

Romaine Fielding's art is wonderfully displayed in Lubin's big feature production, "The Eagle's Nest," on the Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay program, showing at the Hippodrome on Monday and Tuesday. The picture was written, directed and acted in the principal part by Romaine Fielding.

ELSIE JANIS

Delicatessen, and are lifelong friends. When business becomes dull, Meyer gets a position on the police force. Following several arrests, he believes himself getting rich from the fines and he decides to write Mike to join him and they will go into the office business themselves. Their experiences following the setting-up of Mike as the judge, forms the basis of the first entry into motion pictures of Weber & Fields, the celebrated comedians.

"Unto Herself Alone."

Ruth Roland and Henry King are featured with Weber & Fields at the Hippodrome today and tomorrow in the fifth drama in a series of twelve complete moving picture novels on vital questions of life. "Unto Herself Alone," wherein is told of a woman who knew no law, save of her own desires, of how she flew in the face of convention, and how her wings were clipped, also of a man who was only a man and counted not the cost and of how he paid the reckoning.

Out from the chaos of unreasoning desire, out from the blackness of self-interest came the Lawgiver, and in the Book of Ages so that all men could read, "Thou Shalt Not"—And Man took up the cry and sent it ringing down the centuries, and as he raged to see more clearly, the words took on increased force, until they became the inflexible dictum of an uncompromising society. "Thou Shalt Not"—Alicia Knight saw them and laughed. Felix Lynn saw them and shut his eyes. Pledged by the law of man to another, he knew the price of his deception; caught in the irresistible whirlpool of his passion, he followed a force that was older than mankind—that was as indefinite as Time. Then came dawn, and with it the knowledge of his offense in all its hideous nakedness. She cared not. She had tasted life, and the draught was still sweet on her lips. Once again she was ready to leap and snap her fingers in the face of Convention. But her arm dropped even as it was vivid depictions of life in an unsettled country, infested by gold-crazed men; it offers thrills born of spectacular catastrophes, one a massacre, the other a railroad wreck. And in the production we find little niceties in costume and settings that lead one to credit Mr. Fielding with a thorough knowledge of his west and an effort to have each detail as nearly correct as possible.

Harry Chandler and Mr. Fielding adapted "Eagle's Nest" from a play by Edwin Arden and as in the original, Mr. Arden acts the part of Jack Trail as named, when as a child, the survivor of a massacre, he is picked up and adopted by the Silsbees, pioneers on their way west. Not because of shortcomings of Colorado scenery, but because of the startling nature of the concluding reel, the last shall be first in memories of this production. As the story runs, the last is first, meaning that the massacre, reserved for a sensational termination, is supposed to have taken place when Phil Dane, his wife and little son are on their way west. We learn in the first reel that the party comes to grief and that the child is befriended by the Silsbees; but for the full depiction of the massacre we must wait until the plot has run its course. At all events, whether the scenes come early or late, is of minor consequence, for they are well worth waiting for.

"The Slim Princess."

"The Slim Princess," George Ade's great comedy drama and the second photoplay released on the Vitagraph-Lubin-Selig-Essanay program, showing at the Hippodrome Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, again features the excited, soulful, sovereign of the silent drama, Francis X. Bushman, in a prominent role.

The feature is in four parts and is adapted from George Ade's greatest plays. It is full of beauty and romance, as well as delicate and subtle humor. Ruth Stonehouse, as the slim princess, presents a charming picture. Francis X. Bushman takes the part of Alexander H. Pike, the wealthy young American adventurer who wins the Turkish princess. Wallace Beery brings to the comedy element with exceptional skill, as the tutor to the princess. Bryant Washburn and other players have parts in "The Slim Princess," the special attraction here for the bankers' convention.

When Manager Coke Horne secured Theda Bara in "The Clemenceau Case," for the Queen theatre, he understood that he was getting a good picture, but he had no idea it would prove so popular. The film was shown for two days and demands were insistent that it be brought back for a return engagement. After considerable maneuvering, Mr. Horne succeeded in getting the picture again for today only. Theda Bara is one of the most talked of emotional actresses of the day, is a woman of unusual beauty and is possessed of eyes that soothe at one moment and startle the next. She takes the part of the wife of Pierre Clemenceau, the hero of the play, who kills her to save a friend of his from becoming entangled by her. Seldom has any play given more opportunities for dramatic acting, and Theda Bara makes the most of each one. Her supporting company is a most capable one, her husband and his mother being exceptionally well portrayed. The photography is exquisite. Friday and Saturday were busy days at the Queen. Mary Pickford is always an attraction and the popular playhouse was crowded most of the time for the two days to see her in "Fanchon the Cricket." Theda Bara is also popular in Waco and it is expected that many who missed seeing her when she was here before will witness "The Clemenceau Case" today.

Monday and Tuesday, "The Moth and the Flame," the greatest of all the celebrated plays by the gifted dramatist, Clyde Fitch, has been produced with remarkable effect by the Famous Players Film company, and is the attraction on the Paramount program at the Queen, Monday and Tuesday.

The play made such a definite success when produced on the stage that the screen translation of the powerful plot is certain to attract wide interest. The moth is Marion Molton, a fashionable but very lovable girl in New York, who is in love with Edward Fletcher, though she is warned by her friends of his character. Womanlike, she defends and loves him all the more because of the many enemies who speak against him, and again womanlike, openly declares she does not believe the stories of his past, and secretly tells herself that even if they are true she knows that she can reform him. She is about to marry him, when another young woman with a child presents herself at the wedding ceremony, and claims the name of the man. The moth is blinded by the flame, so that she cannot see the perils threatening her. The moth sees her danger, however, just in time to avert it, and with the extinguishment of the flame, the moth, though her wings are singed, still manages to fly to safety and rescue her soul from the devouring fire.

The production is mounted richly and in good taste, and throughout the dignity and artistry of the Famous Players are conspicuously evident.

Wednesday, "The Three Musketeers."

Alexander Dumas' celebrated novel, "The Three Musketeers," has been produced in moving picture form by the Film Attraction company and will be shown at the Queen on Wednesday only. The production is in six parts and more than 160 scenes and carries the spectator in a realistic manner, through the exciting adventures of D'Artagnan, Athos, Porthos and Aramis, that quartet of legendary heroes whose memory is green in the hearts of all lovers of fiction.

The photograph opens, as does the novel, with D'Artagnan leaving home to seek his fortune in Paris. D'Artagnan manages to offend Athos, Porthos and Aramis, and consents to fight a duel with each of them. As the first duel starts, the adventures of the Cardinal's Guards interfere. The four duellists side together escape, and swear eternal friendship.

Then the plot thickens. Queen Anne has given D'Artagnan a token, a Cardinal Richelieu learns of this, has King Louis XIII. agree to give a state ball, and request the queen to wear her diamonds. She secures the gems and reaches Paris in time to save the queen from disgrace. Incidentally, he wins the woman he loves.

Thursday, "The Little Girl That He Forgot."

Miss Beulah Poynter, who is already a favorite with Waco theatregoers, will be seen at the Queen Thursday in "The Little Girl That He Forgot," the play in which she scored such a great dramatic success on the stage. It is produced by the Cosmos Feature Film company, and a good supporting company has been furnished her.

The play is a thrilling, heart interest drama of the lumber districts in the swamp lands of Missouri. Miss Poynter takes the part of June Holly, an orphan girl of the woods, who falls in love with Alan Powell, son of a wealthy lumberman. She goes through some tragic experiences and is tried and convicted of child murder and sentenced to be hanged. Alan succeeds in getting her pardoned on the day set for her execution.

Friday and Saturday, Elsie Janis in "Betty in Search of a Thrill."

Bosworth and the Oliver Morosco Photoplay company have scored big in getting Elsie Janis, the famous actress, to take the title role in "Betty in Search of a Thrill." The picture is on the Paramount program and will be shown at the Queen Friday and Saturday.

Miss Janis plays the part of a little, vivacious, impulsive New York heiress, just out of a convent. She wrote the story herself and, of course, gave herself all kinds of opportunities to display her talents to the best advantage. Disappearing from her uncle's home, Betty takes a position in a department store. The men insist on making love to her wherever she goes, and she changes from one position to another. Just as she is about to be captured by a policeman, she wakes and finds that it is all a dream.

But while her whole experience may have been a dream, the acting is very realistic and the story runs like a tale from the Arabian Nights. Miss Janis has shown New York as she knows it and she has had abundant opportunity to get acquainted with the big metropolis.

NICKEL.

"Tillie's Punctured Romance."

"Tillie's Punctured Romance," a six-part comedy with the three greatest living film comedians, Charles Chaplin, Marie Dressler and Mabel Normand, will be shown; a picture that has played to more people, played offener at the same places, and one picture that absolutely and completely pleases every man, woman and child that sees it, is brought here direct from the Queen in Dallas, where it has been showing this week to enormous crowds (the Queen is a Hulsey house) for this, the farewell engagement. To correct any false statements that have been made, the management assures all patrons that this is an absolutely new print of this picture, clean and clear, and has been released only a few days, and that it will be properly shown by experienced operators, on the most up-to-date machines in Waco, and the screen recognized as the clearest, in the smallest house that has the largest exhaust fans, and at the same old price to you, no matter what the cost to us.

"The Kite."

Benjamin Wheeler and his daughter, Marion, entertain at dinner Davis Watts, an eccentric capitalist, who is much interested in Wheeler's scientific researches. They dine in the roof garden. After the meal Watts seats himself in Wheeler's favorite chair. Suddenly the capitalist falls dead. The following morning the police learn that Wheeler was in debt to Watts and the old inventor is held in suspicion. Marion enlists the service of Norman Dunbar, a scientific detective. Feeling that the roof must furnish the key to the tragedy, Dunbar thoroughly examines the place, finding in a chimney which connects with a laboratory, a highly sensitized steel plate, he concludes that Watts was killed by a current directed against the plate. A few days later the detective finds a kite of Wheeler's invention caught in the telephone wires in the street. He takes it from a copper wire and a steel needle. That afternoon in the laboratory he notes a large dynamo which sufficient voltage to electrocute ten men. When he learns that Hammond, Wheeler's laboratory assistant, had wished to marry Marion against the wishes of her father, Dunbar's suspicion is aroused against his assistant using the kite; he rigs up a piece of apparatus to resemble the device which he believes Hammond to have used in his diver's attempt to kill Wheeler. Hammond is summoned. On having this apparatus demonstrated to him his assistant shows every evidence of guilt and then he breaks down and confesses.

"The Diamond From the Sky."

Tied hand and foot to a stake, around which savage red men dance, the warwhoops piercing the stillness of the calm Virginia forest, Sir Arthur Stanley, soldier of fortune, and scion of the noble house of Stanley of Warwickshire, England, resigns himself to the fate he knew he could not escape. Inch by inch the flames creep around him until the very thought that would have begun to char. Suddenly when all that life held dear seemed lost, the shouting ceased, the dancing halted. In the heaven, far off, as Stanley and the Indians stood in silent awe, there appeared a great ball of red. Nearer and nearer it came leaving in its wake a great cloud of smoke, then, with a mighty thud, the meter struck the ground. Sir Arthur stood, free, amazed, as the savages crowded around him in vicious attitude of homage he was free, they told him, the great spirit having so willed it, by the coming of the ball of fire. A week later, when about to depart, Sir Arthur paused to examine the meteorite that had saved him. Before him embedded in the igneous mass, was a great shining something. With his knife he quickly dug it from the rock—a diamond. The diamond from the sky—it became thereafter a charm against all harm to those of the house of Stanley who possessed it. Two centuries and a half later the Stanley family, then represented by Judge Lamar Stanley and Col. Arthur Stanley,

His first cousin held away in Fairfax county, the first converting power, as represented by politics and property. The latter seeking nothing more than a son and heir, that he might retain possession of the diamond from the sky and bring unto his house the earldom of England. Judge Stanley was the father of a son to whom the diamond and the title would fall unless the colonel's wife, about to become a mother, delivered unto him a male child. At the very hour the colonel's wife sacrificed her life bringing a daughter into the world. Hager, the wife of Harding, the nomad and gypsy who had pitched his tent on the colonel's property, became the mother of a son. Disappointed, Colonel Stanley decides he must supplant his baby daughter with a male child. And Dr. Lee, a righteous man with an elastic conscience, but for friends of many years standing, agreed to participate in the fraud. Within a few hours Harding, for a big bag of gold, had torn his son from his mother and delivered it to Dr. Lee. Thus the baby boy son of a social outcast, became the heir of the Earldom and the diamond, while Judge Lamar sought to bury his chagrin in the wine cup. Four years later Hager, mother of the pseudo heir, returns to Fairfax, seeking to fill her great heart ache in the recovery of her son. Silently, she steals through the window into Stanley's home to behold the master of the house alone. With a cry, the colonel leaped to his feet, faced her, and then with a gasp, fell dead at her feet. Clutching the diamond from the sky, the avenging mother placed it in her bodice and hurried to the room where her child slept. Revenge filled her heart in place of her son, whom she left to enjoy the wealth and position of which she deemed him worthy. She took with her the colonel's baby girl. And in the years that followed, Ester, now a beautiful, graceful, dark haired child, never for a moment doubted but that the gypsy woman was her mother. Dr. Lee, who had kept his secret well, consented at Hager's request to adopt the rare beautiful Ester, only with the understanding that the diamond from the sky be placed in his keeping. Hager agreed, and within a few months the youths of Fairfax was revealing each other for the favorites of this beautiful girl. Blair Stanley, son of the Judge Stanley, now dead, and Arthur Stanley both tall and handsome youths, were her favorites with the usurper of the diamond and title of the Earl. The enmity between them, already increased by the oft-repeated story told Blair by his mother, concerning the diamond from the sky, then held, it was generally believed, by Arthur Stanley. Blair swore the diamond would be his. Leaving the home of Dr. Lee one afternoon Blair paused to peer through the window opening on the veranda. His eyes bulged and great beads of sweat covered his forehead as he placed his face close to the pane, riveted his gaze on the form of the white-haired doctor, seated at the table with the diamond from the sky before him.

Stratton Building Being Remodeled for New Occupants

With tile floors, tile columns, pressed brick walls, plate glass show windows, 165 feet on one side and 44 feet on the other, the building which has been occupied by the Stratton Furniture company for some time in the past will be made into one of the modern store buildings of the city, adding considerable to the front on Austin street and making a decorative building that will be a credit to the city as well as to R. T. Dennis, owner of the present site and the one who is having the building remodeled. The contract calls for the completion of the building by June 15 and it will then be ready for the new occupants. The south part of the building will be taken by Armstrong & Pacific who will add to their already up-to-date stock of jewelry and all allied lines, making one of the most complete jewelry stores in the city. They hope to put in more modern fixtures, shelving, cases and everything that can add to the proper and artistic display of the lines handled by them. All cases and equipment for the displays, following the trade week boosting, will be made in Waco. The front of the building will have plate glass show windows, and nothing will be spared in making the store attractive. The north side will be occupied by Sam Freund & Co., tobacconists. This will be the head store of the firm in Waco, and will be made into a salesroom that will be one of the most modern and best equipped in the state. Besides tobacco they will put in a line of candies, soda fountain, newsstand, etc. The entire side of the building will be made of plate glass show windows running all the way to the alley, 165 feet.

Comptroller Terrell Revokes License

Austin, Tex., May 15.—Comptroller Terrell today issued an order revoking the liquor license of W. A. Brown, of Provident City, Colorado county, on the grounds of alleged violations of the liquor laws. The order of revocation followed an investigation of complaints that Brown had kept his saloon open on Sunday, after 9:30 o'clock p. m., and had sold to minors. Comptroller Terrell was advised today that the license of a proprietor of a Cabaret in Dallas had been revoked by the county judge, and that further investigations were being made under his instructions as to other cabarets in that city. The comptroller said he was determined to enforce the liquor laws as to cabarets in all parts of the state.

Episcopalians Going to Conference at Temple This Week

The meeting of the diocese of Texas of the Episcopal church in yearly conference is to be held this year in Temple, May 19 and 20. The meeting is held for the purpose of getting a resume of the work of the church in the central Texas district and holding discussions along the lines of the last year's work, the work that is under way now and outlines for the work in the future. Bishop Kinsolving of Austin, bishop of the diocese, will be leader of the meeting.

Quite a number of Episcopalians from Waco are going besides the regular delegates, of whom there are four and four alternates to the council and four delegates to the Women's auxiliary. The delegates elected from Waco are E. L. Johnson, Baker Hoskins, George W. Jones, W. H. W. Jones; the alternates are S. N. Hamner, J. C. Davis, Lee C. Richards and William Greene. The delegates to the Women's auxiliary are Miss Nellie Hackett, Miss Minnie Taylor and Mrs. R. G. Patton. The auxiliary holds its meetings Tuesday, while the regular council will meet Wednesday and Thursday. Rev. W. P. Witsell, rector of St. Paul's church, will attend the sessions and occupy a prominent place on the program.

Answering Questions to Be Feature of Ad Club Meeting

Nine questions have been sent out to each member of the Waco Ad club with the request that answers be prepared to be presented at the meeting of the club next Thursday afternoon. The questions, which were prepared at a meeting of the educational committee held last week in the offices of President C. B. Harman, are as follows:

"Do you favor continuing holding meetings at the Y. M. C. A., with a 35c meal, or would you prefer changing, at least temporarily, to some other place, at 50c?"

"If you prefer another meeting place, what place?"

"Please suggest one or more subjects that you would like to have placed on future programs for discussion.

"Should program talks be confined to members of the club, or should outsiders be invited to address us?"

"Should the educational programs be devoted entirely to stunts, or consist entirely of educational features?"

"Should the club undertake to secure the educational course of lessons in advertising, the cost of same to be $20, to be paid out of the general fund of the club?"

"Would you favor the publication of a summer monthly paper, similar to 'For Better Advertising,' which was 'Can we count on you being present at the next meeting of the club?' 'Will you fill out this blank and return it now?'"

Additional report of the progress of the "On-to-Chicago" movement of the Texas ad. clubs will be reported at the meeting Thursday night by W. H. Hoffmann, chairman of the local "On-to-Chicago" committee and member of the state committee. Other general business of the club will also receive attention.

Haynes Light Six Makes a Test Run of 54,513 Miles

"A Haynes Light Six stock car motor has just completed a run of 54,513 miles in the show room of the Newark, N. J., branch," states W. M. Oden, distributor of America's First Car. "The run was conducted as a test to determine the wear of parts."

"The results show that an average speed of 22 miles an hour was maintained for 3,132 hours with a gasoline consumption of 24.39 miles a gallon. The average consumption of cylinder oil was 430 miles a quart, and of water in the cooling system 430 miles a pint. The temperature in the radiator averaged 130 degrees, even though no artificial cooling was used and the exhaust was conducted from the muffler through 22 feet of 1½-inch pipe."

"At the end of the run the motor was torn down. The wear on the crank shaft and cam shaft bearings was five ten-thousandths of an inch. 'The valves were a surprise. The intake valves were still bright and needed no grinding. The exhaust valves were in good condition and showed but slight pitting. The valve stems and push rod adjusting screws showed no appreciable wear.'

"The platinum breaker points were cleaned and set twice during the test. The piston rings were perfectly bright all around and showed no leaky or burned spots. The walls of the cylinders showed an almost inappreciable wear. They were perfectly bright and absolutely free from scores."

"The generator was opened but once for inspection. No work was done, and the original brushes are still in use. The original fan belt is also still in service. The test proved conclusively that the ignition, lubrication and cooling are practically perfect."

"Following the inspection, the motor was assembled and the car driven 217 miles. All gears were quiet and the same power and flexibility were given as when the car left the factory."
